THE NEWEST IDEAS IN FUN!

Come see us at the Toy Fair . . . you'll see the brightest, happiest, newest ideas in fun!

This year Doepke has created a whole new group of toys, as fresh in concept as the sensational Yardbird, built in the Model tradition of fine craftsmanship, and destined for spectacular success.

We're raising the curtain on these dramatic new playthings at the Fair, because we know you'll want to see them "live." In the months ahead you can expect to see them come alive in your store, too. They'll make the kids whoop with delight — they'll make fond parents reach happily for their pocketbooks. They'll make big sales . . . big volume sales . . . and big profits.

If you don't do another thing at the Fair, do stop in at

ROOMS 611-612, NEW YORKER OR ROOMS 510-512, 200 5th AVE.

The sensation of last year's Fair was the unique, incomparable Yardbird, and it rolled straight from the Fair into the hearts of America's youngsters. The following pages tell you all about this year's improved Yardbird and the marvelous new equipment that helps make it more of a show-stopper than ever. Now you can sell an entire railway system, and it will haul profits to you in carload lots! You'll also find a page about the famous Model Sports Car Kits and the Model Fire Department. These masterpieces in miniature are American classics, and perennial best sellers whenever and wherever the occasion calls for the very finest of toys.

THEY'RE PERENNIAL HIGH PROFIT MAKERS, TOO, FOR EVERY DEALER WHO SHOWS THEM

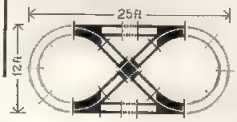
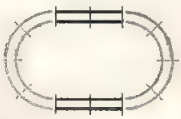
THERE'S NO END TO THE VARIETY — OR THE FUN!

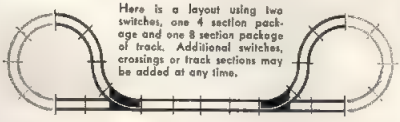
Track layouts like these are easy with the extra Yardbird equipment. The sections shown in gray represent the original track supplied in the basic Yardbird equipment.



This example uses four switches, one crossing, one 8 section package of track and one filler rail set, shown as dotted lines.



Here is a layout using two switches, one 4 section package and one 8 section package of track. Additional switches, crossings or track sections may be added at any time.



Another variation with one 4 section package of track. Additional track may be added in much the same manner as electric train layouts are expanded.

DOEPKE Model TOYS

EVERY YARDBIRD YOU SELL IS THE

The wonderful Yardbird Railway doesn't end with that first 40 feet of track — and neither do your sales. Every boy and girl who owns one will want to keep adding more rolling stock, new track, extra switches and crossings — there's no limit to how big a Yardbird Railway System can become. Track can be laid to fit almost any level area. It will circle around trees and flower beds, make a siding at the back porch, run a spur line through the hedge to the yard next door.

Shown on these pages is the all-new, extra Yardbird equipment, and a few of the possible track layouts. Every time you sell a Yardbird, show your customers all the extras, and watch them come back for more. The Yardbird is easy to sell in the first place — and one sale leads to another!

Glossies and mats, with descriptive copy, are available on the Yardbird, Super-Yardbird Streamliner and extra equipment shown here. Order direct from the factory.

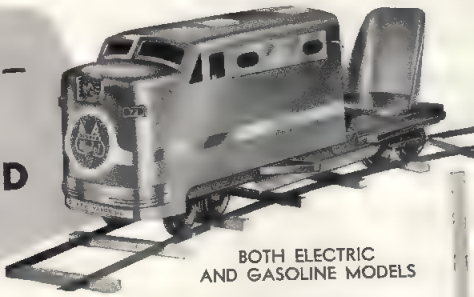
A bright and lively 8 page folder tells (and sells!) the Yardbird story to your customers. We'll send you 500 of these sales-making folders with your order for 5 or more Yardbirds.

Note on freight rates: It's a good idea to check the minimum freight rate in your city, and make sure your order weighs at least that much. For example, if your minimum weight is 100 lbs., and you order only the Yardbird, weighing 79 lbs., you're paying for 21 pounds of freight you aren't getting. It's good business to make each order large enough to cover the minimum rate. Every additional unit beyond the minimum reduces the per-unit rate.

*Prices marked "West" on Yardbird and equipment include 11 Western States, Tex., Okla., La., and Ark.

THE DREAM-COME-TRUE

SUPER-YARDBIRD STREAMLINER



BOTH ELECTRIC AND GASOLINE MODELS

To a youngster's bright imagination this isn't just a toy — it's the real thing! For this mighty locomotive is powered with a real engine — gasoline or electric. When its lucky young owner sends it thundering around the track ahead of a train of cars he (or she — the girls are just as crazy about the Yardbird as the boys) is an engineer for real — and the proudest kid in town! The Super-Yardbird easily pulls two cars loaded with freight or passengers. It has plenty of speed for thrills and excitement, but a governor holds it down to a safe pace.

Both models are built on heavy-gauge steel frames, with reinforced steel and fiberglas bodies, both have horn and headlight. V-belt drive through gear box to rear wheels. Color, red and silver, black wheels. 45" long, 20" wide, 19" high. Gasoline engine is 2 h.p., 4 cycle with recoil starter. Engine and driving mechanism are entirely enclosed. Engines are used nationally for power mowers, etc., carry a full warranty, parts and service are obtained everywhere. Electric motor is powered by 12 amp., 6-volt automobile storage battery (not included). Battery recharger is included, is completely safe, simple enough for any child to operate.

Super-Yardbird Streamliner, gasoline power, No. 2028. Packed: KD, 1 carton. Weight, 89 lbs. Retail, $225.00. West, $230.00.*

Super-Yardbird Streamliner, electric power, No. 2027. Pack: Completely assembled, 1 carton. Weight, 89 lbs. Retail, $225.00. West, $230.00.*

The Yardbird fits any level space, indoors or out, that's at least 12 feet square. Kids are wild about the Yardbird because it's more fun than anything in the world. Parents are just as tickled at the way a Yardbird builds muscles, the wonderful way it keeps youngsters happy hour after hour, while it keeps them safely at home. These famous almost-like-real dolls make wonderful playmates because of exclusive features such as "Super Flex" joints, which enable dolls to assume dozens of natural positions, realistic Vinyl plastic "Fairy Skin" and washable, rooted "Miracle" hair.

(A) BABY DOLL WITH WARDROBE. So much doll and such a big value for the price. She's almost as much fun as having a real live playmate. Baby Doll turns her head, closes her eyes when she sleeps, and "coos" when hugged.

Her glamorous wardrobe includes a dress of floral print nylon, an extra dress of lace-trimmed taffeta plaid with ninon pinafore, two slips, Vinyl shoes, cotton panties, rayon stockings and a locket. Her Vinyl "Fairy Skin" is washable without injury to its realistic detailing

Doreena Ballerina

THE TOE DANCING DOLL

This 20" package of joy is the greatest thrill ever for your little princess' heart

Her head is soft life-like vinyl. Her eyes open and close. Her hair is saran and is rooted in her scalp individually imbedded like real hair! in a long full ponytail style. Her arms, too, are of the same skin-like vinyl, and are shaped to take on the graceful pose of a ballerina. The body and legs are fine unbreakable plastic. When you hold her and-lead her she takes short dancing steps, and her head turns from side to side when she dances.

But that's not all! Because her knees and ankles are flexible and she can assume any of the positions illustrated and hundreds more merely by a touch of the finger. She wears an authentic tutu costume of lame and net and full length S-T-R-E-T-C-H Nylon hose. Her shoes are by Capezio, "The Dancer's Cobbler since 1887." They are exact replicas of Capezio's professional dance shoes and Capezio's name is imprinted on each shoe.

Last, but not least, by lowering her foot to a normal walking position she can be dressed in street clothes and becomes a regular walking doll. Included with each doll is a special stand designed to hold her in many different ballet positions.

No. 4R1-865 Doll and Stand . . . . Retail $12.95

No. 4R6-670 Same as above with standard doll stand. Doll does not bend at knee or ankle Retail $9.95

36 PIECE DOLL, WARDROBE and STAGE SET

Doreena Ballet Tour

Lovely Doreena has now come of age -thoroughly trained in all ballet positions including bending knees and flexing ankles —she is making her first performance tour. Along with the Doreena Doll is her wardrobe for street wear and stage wear.

She has authentic Ballet costumes for
Swan Lake
Beau Danube
The Nutcracker and, Oh yes! A leotard for practice, too.

Going to and from the theatre—she must wear street clothes so she has regular walking shoes and short socks—a lovely street dress and a dressy little coat and hat.
When she has a formal to attend after the theatre, she wears her beautiful velvet Beau Danube costume with a matching velvet stole. For sleeping, she has a lovely sheer Nanon night gown. An extra pair of dance shoes and dance hose are also included -Not to mention hangers for her things—and curlers to change her hair style from time to time
Since she sometimes performs at parties and teas, she has her own stage which travels with her—and her wardrobe hangs in the two sections that fit right into the compact set
There never before was a doll like this one

MOTOR BOATING presents 1956

★ OUTBOARD ★ ★ MOTORS ★

EVINRUDE

Designed to fulfill optimum requirements for power and style, the 30 hp electric-starting Lark is the aristocrat of Evinrude's 1956 line of outboard motors. Mechanically, the Lark is identical to the Big Twin and produces speeds up to 30 mph. It is finished with bright red and chrome trim, two shades of gray and chrome inscriptions on white. A chrome door-type hood encloses waterproofed control knobs

The 30 hp electric-starting and standard Big Twins provide speeds up to 30 mph at 4500-5000 rpm for large outboard runabouts, cruisers, off-shore fishing craft, and water-skiing. The Big Twins represent a sensible quantity of power for heavy duty outboard motor applications.

With the incorporation of the Cruis-Throttle which allows a 20% fuel saving and the special stall-preventing low speed throttle adjustment, the Big Twins are most economical.

All 30 hp units are fitted with a special manual lock which holds the motor in a fixed position during deceleration. The lock releases automatically if an underwater obstacle is struck.

The electric-starting Big Twin now includes a lighter and more compact starter motor and is also equipped with a standard manual standby starter cord.

The starter panel carries weather-proof buttons for both the starter and the electrically-operated choke used for "cold" starts. Starting panel, switches and junction box have been weather-proofed and treated to resist salt water corrosion.

Suitable for use with a large range of boats, the new electric-starting and the standard model 15 hp Fastwins deliver speeds from one to 25 mph at 4000-5000 rpm depending on boat weight and design. Its ability to throttle down to minimum trolling speeds has made the Fastwin an ideal model for off-shore fishing.

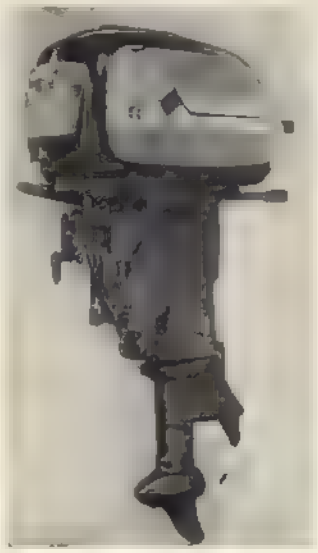
Evinrudes new 10 hp Sportwin provides speeds from a crawling troll to 20 mph. Like the Fastwin, the Sportwin is excellent in twin installations for offshore fishing. Sportwin has a lock which holds the motor rigid when the starter cord is pulled This locking device, the Trim Lok, also holds the motor in place when in reverse gear and during sudden deceleration.

The 7.5 hp Fleetwin is ideal for light boats whose structure demand even, continuous, power. Fleetwin starting, benefiting from the Eas-O-Matic flywheel, takes the chore out of starter-cord pulling. Weighing only 56 pounds, the Fleetwin can be easily carried from car to boat.

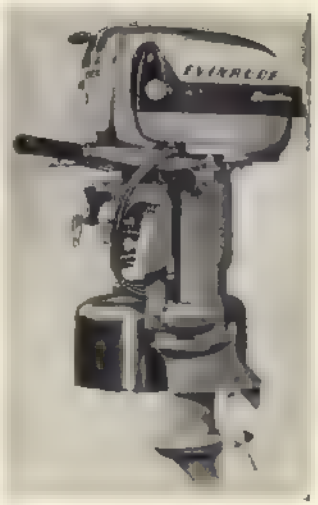
Smallest of the motors to be engineered with Evinrude's Aquasonic—soundproofing on water—principles, the 5.5 hp Fisherman bids fair to be the inshore angler's pet motor. It boasts four hours of continuous high-speed operation on a single tank full of gasoline and weighs only 51 pounds.

The 3 hp 32-pound Lightwin stows easily in any automobile luggage compartment. As a result, it has become especially popular with traveling hunters, fishermen and vacationers. Evinrude's Fisherman's Drive allows the motor to pass through thick marsh grass and weeds and over rocks, sand, mud, etc.

Roto-Matic speed control, a rotating grip mounted at the end of the steering handle which permits steering and speed control in a single combined operation, has been included in all 1956 models except the Lightwin and electric-starting Lark. For the latter, it is optional.



Evinrude's 30 hp electric-starting Lark is a deluxe model sporting a custom-built look.



The new Evinrude 10 hp Sportwin provides speeds from a crawling troll up to 20 mph.

Remote controls are available for all 1956 Evinrudes except the 3 hp Lightwin. Evinrude Simplex controls permit motor operation from any position in the boat.

Six-gallon Cruis-A-Day gas tanks are standard on all 30, 15 and 10 hp models. The four-gallon Junior Cruis-A-Day tank is used with both the 7.5 hp Fleetwin and the 5.5 hp Fisherman

All Evinrudes have aluminum alloy cylinders with hard iron sleeves cast integrally Pistons are also of aluminum alloy. Propeller and drive shafts are stainless steel. Gears are case-hardened nickel steel, and corrosion-resistant alloy is used for gear housings.

All except the 3 hp Lightwin feature Auto-Lift hoods allowing easy access to the engine.

A five-inch longer lower unit is available for all models.

JOHNSON MOTORS

Keeping pace with the trend toward larger boats and an increased interest in outboards for multiple uses, Johnson Motors announces a big 30 hp engine in three models and two new motors in the 15 and 7½ hp category, swelling the line to six motors, and a number of mechanical improvements in all models.

Results of fall production has proven the Johnson 30 to be a real "load" motor offering excellent performance for outboard cruisers, and the large runabout-type boats now coming to the forefront in popularity. These same field results give evidence that the performance difference between the new 30 and last year's 25 is even greater than the 5 hp differential might indicate

Still more recently offered to the consumer public is the new Johnson Javelin, a customized electric-starting 30 which has been called the last word in functional design. Created by Brooks Stevens, renowned sports car designer, the Javelin is symbolic of the current outboard trend toward styling and eye appeal.

VISIONEERING

A new, 214 hp, 6-cylinder marine engine, developed as a seagoing companion to the White Motor truck engine, is now being produced by Visioneering Company, Inc., of Sarasota, Florida. The Sea Mustang has been completely engineered for marine use and promises a more satin-smooth drive and exceptional economy.

Among the many features are: forced feed line lubrication, oversize heat exchanger as standard equipment on the salt water model, sodium-filled valves, hydraulic valve lifters, and a seven-main-bearing crankshaft which delivers torque to the clutch and reduction gear through the flywheel, instead of the timing gear. The Sea Mustang engine and service parts will be distributed by White Motor dealers throughout the country.

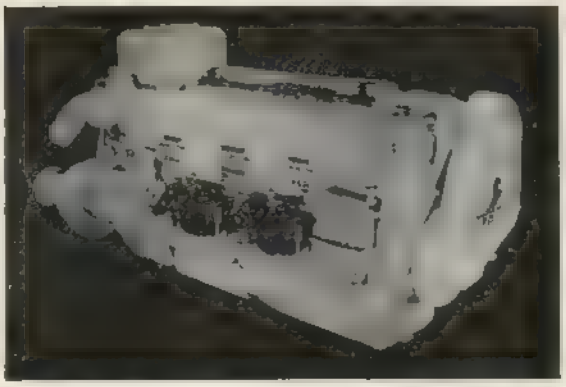
FAGEOL INBOARD

Ten major improvements in the 1956 model Fageol "44" inboard marine engine (formerly the Aerojet) are announced by Fageol Products Company, Kent, Ohio.

These include: New fluted-top aluminum camshaft cover which gives better cooling, quieter operation and improves appearance. Better shift operation accomplished by new type shift springs and improved spring rod action. A stronger stainless steel control cable is now supplied with bronze pulleys to prevent corrosion. Cutless rubber trunion bearings are used as support for the propeller shaft. Propeller driveshaft design has been improved by use of solid ends. New hook-type key permits faster driveshaft replacement.

Vee-drive pulleys are now "hard-coated" for increased wear and resistance to corrosion. Rudder arm is of improved design and stronger construction. Vee-drive rocker arm castings are now made of bronze. This prevents corrosion and seizure. Exhaust pipe is raised above water line. A stuffing box is now offered as optional equipment—in addition to the standard log shaft seal.

This new 214 hp 6-cylinder marine engine is introduced by Visioneering Company, Inc., of Sarasota, Florida. Known as the Sea Mustang, it has been developed as a marine version of the White motor truck engine. Service will be available through the widespread White Motor organization throughout the entire country.



The improved Fageol "44" inboard engine is a complete power package that is easy to install, unusually light in weight and economical to operate. It is offered as optional equipment in over 60 makes of boats. Single engine installations are recommended in hulls of 14 to 20 feet and twin installations in hulls exceeding 20 feet.

For detailed information, write Fageol Products Company, Kent, Ohio.

DEARBORN INTERCEPTOR

A new 215 hp "Y" Block V-8 gasoline engine, named the Interceptor 215, is announced by Dearborn Marine Engines, Inc., 31465 Stephens Hwy., Royal Oak 4, Mich. Weighing 625 pounds installed, the Interceptor 215 weighs only 2.907 pounds per horsepower developed. This is a modern short-stroke engine with a high 9.1 compression ratio and top operating engine speed of 4900 rpm.

The principal safety features of all Interceptors are incorporated in carburetion, crankcase breathing and intake manifolding. The carburetion system is nested in the V formed by the cylinders and is designed so vapors or raw fuel are at all times confined within the intake system. These features provide protection from accumulation of vapors or raw fuel in the engine compartment or bilge.

In overall dimension the engines are confined to a length of 36½", width of 26¾" a height above the crankshaft of only 16¼" and depth of 10".

The Series-Flow cooling system provides high-velocity, constant-flow cooling with king-size capacity for equalized temperatures throughout the engine. Full-length waterjackets surround each cylinder for even wall expansion, more efficient operation with less friction and wear and protect the Interceptors while operating at all speeds from steam pockets and hot spots.

The Interceptors are supported by rubber bushings and specially designed mounting for quick, easy 4-way engine alignment in all directions. Optional bolt centers are from 21 to 24 inches.

The planetary reverse gear has a self-contained hydraulic control. The reverse gear has a step-up ratio of 1.48:1 reducing the necessity for revving up the engine when maneuvering.

The 12-volt electrical system is automatically regulated and includes fully enclosed starter and generator and a moistureproof ignition system.

In addition to the new 215, Interceptor models are manufactured in 125, 145, 160 and 175 hp models.

The powerful 625-pound Dearborn Interceptor 215 combines light weight, high torque, and high compression.

Equally important from the consumer standpoint is the adoption of a new "holiday bronze" color to replace the familiar Johnson seahorse green. This color change was made because the firm felt that the new color would better harmonize with modern boat hulls better than did the former green—more evidence of the marine styling trend.

Mechanical improvements include a new elliptical pull starter, a fuel saver for 30 hp models, smaller, hotter electric starting motors, a new magneto, a stall-proof idle stop, and other features.

In one of these, pull-cord starting on all models below 30 hp reportedly requires up to 40 percent less physical effort due to the adoption of an elliptical starter plate which, timed with the compression impulses of the motor, increases leverage and smooths the hiherto "jerky" starter action.

At cruising speeds, the 30 will operate more economically then its predecessor 25 due to a fuel-saving device which becomes effective when the throttle is retarded after the boat is on plane. Essentially, it involves an automatic operation of throttle and spark between ¾ and full speed.

The 30 hp Johnson Javelin deluxe customized outboard, styled in holiday bronze and spray white by Brooks Stevens.

On the 15 and 30 electric-starter models, there is a lighter, smaller and "hotter" starting unit which reduced drain on the battery and also lessens over-all motor weight

One important change, to the owner, is the addition of lifting or carrying handles on the 30. The handles are detachable at the owner's option.

The Sea-Horse 5½, traditional fisherman's favorite and first of the "quiet" motors, has been additionally silenced in the 1956 version by use of rubber suspension-mounts which first appeared on 1955's 10 and 25 hp models. Similar mounts are on the 7½, 10, 15 and 30, leaving only the 3 without suspension drive. Engineers consider suspension-drive unnecessary on the 3 because of the inherent quietness of this motor.

A new 1956 Sea Horse 7½ fills a gap in the Johnson outboard line between the 5½ and 10

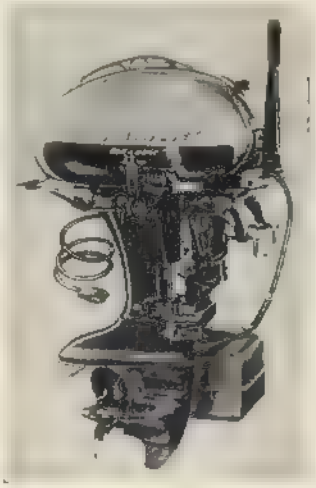
Of equal importance to the consumer is the price of the new Johnson line. Prices for 1956 are slightly higher than they were last year, but the firm points out that they are modest when compared to other consumer products. For instance, the new Sea-Horse 3 sells for three dollars less than did the firm's 3 hp motor in 1929

SCOTT-ATWATER

Scott-Atwater Manufacturing Company, recognizing the boating trend toward greater horsepower, recently announced the introduction of a powerful and quiet-operating 33 hp outboard motor for 1956. The new motor is a powerful alternate firing twin.

The "33" will reach speeds up to 42 mph. It is available with either conventional or electric push-button starting and features a built-in tow ring for water skiers that also serves as a form of "trailer hitch" to tow other boats.

The new model replaces the 30 hp



The versatile twin-cylinder 33 hp Scott-Atwater outboard requires no flushing after use in salt water to prevent corrosion.

model, new last year. Features of the "33" include:

Aquamute Exhaust. This complete underwater exhaust prevents water from backing into the exhaust chamber and eliminates noisy relief ports.

Bail-a-matic Power Bailing automatically bails a boat at a rate of up to 240 gallons per hour.

Free-Flow V-Valves. The V-type reed box allows for the reed opening in the direction of the fuel flow from the carburetor, permitting an easy flow of fuel to the motor that provides extra power.

Air Intake Silencer on the carburetor deadens internal engine noises.

Hush-Spring Mount. Oversized vibration-deadening spring mountings at both powerhead and boat bracket combine with the Aquamute exhaust and intake silencer to make the 33 one of the quietest big-horsepower motors.

Aquablade Lower Unit. Slim design provides more efficiency and speed.

Built-in Ski Tow Ring.

Scott-Atwater's Bail-a-matic feature is a power bailer that bails your boat automatically. It is available on five of the models.

Other important features are:

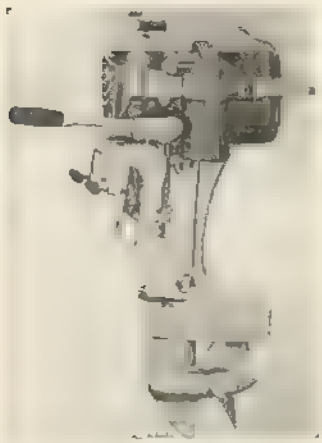
Push-button electric starting is available in the "33" with a manual starter as standard equipment. The electric-starting model has instant plug-in connections for battery and starter panel.

Automobile-Type Dual Exhaust provides better motor performance with separate exhaust passages for each cylinder, eliminating exhaust contact with the piston walls.

Safety-Zone Shift Lock. A safety feature, this lock is actuated by the shift lever, making it impossible to start in any gear except neutral or to shift gears at high speeds.

Other features are remote control connections, Snap-off hood for easy inspection, separate six-gallon Stowaway fuel tank, carburetor drain, Vacu-Matic water pump for uniform cooling, Shock-Absorber Propeller, an automatic fuel pump that eliminates the need for pressurizing of tank or hose, stabilized steering which maintains automatic tiller settings, and a Squeeze Primer in the gasoline hose to prime a motor for fast starts.

Other motors in the 1956 Scott-Atwater line include 16, 10, 7.5, 5 and 3.6 horsepower.



The 20 cubic inch 20 hp Mark 25 Mercury MercElectric weighs only 73 pounds and features turn-the-key electric starting.

MERCURY

New competition engines for stock outboard Classes B, C, and D were announced recently by the Kiekhaefer Corporation, Fond du Lac, Wisconsin, manufacturers of Mercury Outboard Motors.

Designed specifically for the increasing number of stock outboard racing enthusiasts participating in outboard marathons and closed-course competition, the new model 1956 Mercury engines give the average individual with a zest for speed a chance to compete on an equal basis with the skilled mechanic or racing specialist . . . and at a reasonable cost

The engines have been properly registered with the major sanctioning groups in the U. S. and will be eligible for competition in the 1956 season. They include the 39.6 cubic inch Class D Mark 55H, the 29.7 cubic inch Class C Mark 30H and the 19.8 cubic inch Class B Mark 20H. All are alternate firing. The 55H and 30H are four-cylinder in-line types; the 20H is a twin.

For 1956 Mercury builds ten motors from 5.9 to 40 hp. They feature Full Jeweled Power . . . anti-friction ball and roller bearings on every turning point within the engine. Waterproof magnetos and spark plugs are on all models. Unicast one-piece gear cases that seal the lubricant in and keep water out are also standard equipment, and every model is equipped with a propeller clutch that requires no shear pins.

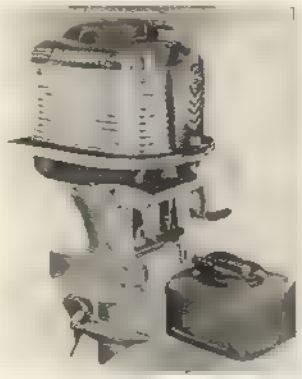
Three models are available with electric starting, the 20 hp Mark 25E, the 30 hp Mark 30E, and the 40 hp Mark 55E. All of the 20, 30, and 40 hp models are equipped with Dyna-Float engine suspension that isolates engine vibration from the boat and eases stress on transoms. Mercury uses a shear-type rubber mounting in its Dyna-Float suspension

The 40 hp four-cylinder in-line Mark 55 is a first choice for powering cruisers, big fast runabouts, and commercial workboats. Its integral aircraft type magneto is waterproofed, and is quickly removable for service or replacement. The Flo-Torq clutch eliminates shear pins

The electric starting Mark 55 comes complete with generator that keeps a 12-volt battery fully charged and permits use of horns, lights, radios, electric bilge pumps, and other accessories without fear of battery drain. Performance of the Mark 55 Electric ranges from a slow troll up to 40 mph on fast runabouts.

The new Mark 30 is capable of a wide range of speeds. It will troll slowly, yet has a reserve of power for water skiiers and will plane a runabout at over 30 mph. The new Mark 30, like the larger Mark 55, is an alternate firing, four-cylinder in-line all die cast engine of 30 cubic inch piston displacement rated at 30 hp and weighing only 110 pounds, complete with steering handle and synchronized twist grip throttle. It will be produced in the manual starting model; and will also be available with 12-volt starter and generator.

A tremendous power and safety reserve has been incorporated in the Mark 30. With its four-cylinder in-line construction, modern high compression, and light



For speed and durability in long marathons or grueling closed course competition, the Class D four cylinder-in-line 39.8 cubic inch Mercury Mark 55 H.

reciprocating parts firmly positioned by a rigid all die cast crankcase and cylinder block, the engine thrives on high rpm. Sustained engine speeds up to 10,000 rpm have been achieved in test operations. Net result is a smooth, quiet power flow, and a greater life span at ordinary cruising speeds. Isolation of engine vibration and noise has been achieved in the Mark 30 by a Dyna-Float suspension system, using shear type mounts with wider mounting span. A sound absorbing blanket is wrapped around the powerhead to cut off noise without power restriction

The new waterproof Mark 30 magneto can be replaced in a matter of minutes, or be removed for servicing by loosening four cap screws . . . without disturbing the timing. Shear pins have been eliminated by use of the Flo-orq propeller drive. An unbonded rubber bushing is loaded enough to drive the propellers, yet slips on impact should the blades strike an obstruction.

Top performer in the 20 cubic inch class and a favorite of fishermen, pleasure boatmen and water skiers who want a light, portable engine with enough power is the Mark 25. Available with either manual or "Turn the Key" electric starting, the Mark 25 will troll all day at a snail's pace, yet plane a heavy fisherman's boat at a 25 mph clip or pull water skiers with ease and economy. The Mark 25 alternate firing twin, has all the Mercury performance and safety features, yet weighs only 73 pounds.

The Mark 6, rated at 5.9 hp and weighing only 42 pounds, has power enough to plane a boat or pull a youngster on water skis. Its compact design, remote fuel tank, multiple disc propeller clutch, twist grip throttle, dual purpose drive and single snap detachable cowl make it a great favorite of campers

OLIVER

Oliver Outboard Motors, Battle Creek, Mich., reveals its 1956 line is marked by new color-styling and design, and many new features. Top of the new Oliver line is an all-new 35 hp motor. Big talking point is Oliver's Tilt-A-Matic adjustment, an inboard control for adjusting the vertical angle of the motor at any running speed. Finger-tip control provides a safe method of setting tilt, resulting in what Oliver describes as a "Glide-Ride."

Dura-Drive, Oliver's new lower unit, is rugged and simple. Fewer moving parts result in simpler maintenance, longer life and less vibration. Propeller action is more efficient due to simplification of the drive mechanism. Outer casing is newly-designed to give a smooth, flowing line, resulting in better underwater action

In addition to creating a brand new appearance, design helps in achieving natural performance and what Oliver describes as a "natural sound," the result of Vibra-Free rubber shear mountings at six vital points, intake silencing and underwater exhaust

Finger-tip motor controls are new in 1956 models. Called the "tip-a-lever" control system, it includes a push-type, flood-proof choke and carburetor adjustment. Oliver's aircraft type ignition, with Bendix Scintilla magneto, results in quick easy starting and longer engine life. The new hot spark ignition system is completely waterproof.

Oliver's new 35 hp outboard. The Tilt-A-Matic feature permits adjusting the vertical angle of the motor.

The advanced-styled Oliver 35 features Tilt-A-Matic "Glide-Ride" adjustment, electric starting as standard equipment with 12-volt battery furnished free to buyers, generator and poppet valves. A ventilated cowling lets more air in and out to provide safety and extra engine power. Porta-Grip handles make for easier carrying.

New color styling, Synchro-Matic remote controls, positive acting starting, and intake silencers are highlights of the 1956 Oliver 15 hp models. Synchro-Matic remote controls permit operating from any command station either port or starboard.

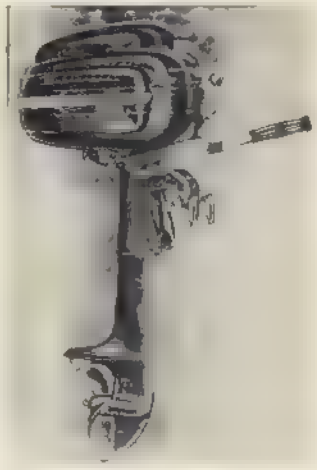
The new Oliver 5½ retains its wide operating range. Lighter weight—less than 50 pounds—is achieved principally through the new Dura-Drive lower unit yet power is improved. Safe-T-Shift, a special spring-loaded shift lever, is new for '56 and eliminates gear clash. The 5½ has Vibra-Free suspension, finger-tip throttle control, Tilt-A-Matic "Glide-Ride" adjustment, and an improved magneto

Featured in all 1956 Oliver outboards are: neutral, forward and reverse gear-shifts, Tenda-Matic fuel tanks; semi-weedless propellers; optional power unit extensions and Twist-Grip throttles.

OUTBOARD MOTORS, LTD.

The British firm of Outboard Motors, Ltd., of Whitstable, Kent, England, are introducing to the American market their line of outboard motors. A very complete series of engines is manufactured beginning with a 1.3 hp called Seacub, and progressing through 2.3, 4, 6. 9, 15, 18, 24 and a 28 hp racing model. Designated by name, the Seacub of 1.3 hp is the smallest. The Zundapp Delphin is a sideboard engine of 2.3 hp adapted to canoes and similar craft where the engine attaches to the side of the boat rather than the transom. The Berning Regina comes in 4 and 6 hp sizes, both being of standard outboard style.

The larger engines are sold under the brand name Konig and the smallest of this series is the 9 hp size. The larger 15 and 18 hp models are both arranged as standard and electric starting models. The still larger 22, 24, 28 hp are distinctly racing type engines intended for the 250 and 350 cc classes popular abroad. Konig motors hold four records in their classes established in European competition.



The 1956 line of Buccaneer outboard motors made by Gale Products, Galesburg, Illinois, includes a 3 hp Standard model (illustrated), two 5 hp models, three 12 hp motors, and two 25s.

NEW FAGEOL OUTBOARD

L. J. Fageol, Gold Cup racer and Fageol Products Company president, is introducing a new 35 hp outboard marine motor. The Fageol "44" Outboard will be of 4-cylinder, 4-cycle design—the first American unit of this type—an adaptation of the Fageol 44 inboard Vee-Drive.

Mixing gasoline and motor oils, as in other outboards, is not required. Tests indicate that fuel economy will be noteworthy, increasing the cruising range of outboard-powered craft.

The unit will employ a new steering principle, which retains beaching ability, and is said to assure stability with increased maneuverability and handling ease. It will be lightweight and will mount to outboard boat transoms in the conventional manner

In operation, it will be as quiet as the Fageol "44" inboard, and is said to be popularly priced.

Fageol Products Company, located in Kent, Ohio, is a division of Twin Coach Company.

GOODYEAR SEA-BEE

Some outstanding new features in the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company's 1956 line of Sea-Bee outboard motors are revealed by the firm, in announcing its new models.

Highlighting changes and improvements in these latest Sea-Bee units is the step-up in horsepower of the former 22 hp Deluxe model to 25 hp. This new motor is similar in design to its 22-horse predecessor, but the engine bore has been made larger, thus giving it a full 25 hp O.B.C. rating.

This model is now manufactured in both automatic rewind and electric starting models. In addition, latest engineering advances make it still quieter.

Two major changes appear in the new 12 hp Deluxe Sea-Bee. To achieve further quietness air intake silencers are provided on the carburetor; lower units are completely mounted in rubber on the stern bracket.

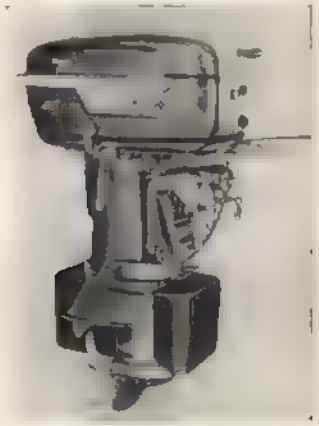
For additional silencing, shrouding of the powerhead has been sealed to a pan at the bottom, the same as on the 1955-model 22 hp unit. Other improvements also have been made in the 12 hp model. Included in its cost is a separate six-gallon fuel tank.

Whisper-quiet operation again features the 1956 five hp Deluxe Sea-Bee. In addition to having its own integral gas tank, it is designed so that an optional separate gas tank may be used if desired.

Besides this Deluxe model, the company also offers a five hp standard unit, similar to its 1955 model.

Rounding out the line is the three hp Deluxe model, having a new die-cast starter housing, along with latest design and styling features.

Illustrations, full details and specifications of the various models are contained in the company's 1956 Outboard Motors, Boats and Fishing Tackle Catalog.



Product of Gale Products, Galesburg, Illinois, the 25 hp Buccaneer illustrated above is available also in an electric-starting model. Electric starting can also be had on the 12 hp motor.

The Silvertrol is a safe, silent fisherman's motor. It operates electrically for approximately two days' fishing on a 6-volt heavy duty battery without recharging. Maker is Silver Creek Precision Corp., Silver Creek, N. Y.

BLAW-KNOX PRECISION SUBGRADER

VIBRATION DOES THE DIGGING

Blaw-Knox 20'—25' Adjustable Width Precision Subgrader.

Harnessed controlled vibration applied to the forward edge of the cutter bar assembly excavates the subgrade material for paving work to exact crown and grade. Excavation by vibration makes it possible for the Blaw-Knox Precision Subgrader to cut through the hardest material encountered in the preparation of paving subgrade far beyond the limits of any subgrading machine previously devised.

Vibration at the rate of 2,000 impulses per minute are produced by vibration generators mounted on the back of the cutter assembly. The cutter assembly is so completely insulated from the Precision Subgrader that the impacts of vibration are not transmitted into the subgrader frame or the paving forms, but flow fore and aft directly from the cutting edge into the subgrade material to be excavated. A transverse conveyor disposes of the excavated material in a windrow beyond the forms.

The two-wheel mounted strike-off, adjustable for crown and width, gives final shape to the subgrade. It is towed by the subgrader at a distance of six feet from the machine. This six-foot space exposes the semi-finished subgrade and provides an ample area to make any necessary corrections to the subgrade such as removal of partially embedded rocks or addition of material where subgrade was too low. Fine material for the final strike-off is sifted by vibration through small vertical openings in the cutter assembly with an action very similar to that of a vibrating screen.

Behind the strike-off no additional adjustment or hand work are required. One machine operator and assistant prepare sufficient finished subgrade to take care of the output of two 34-E dual drum paving mixers.

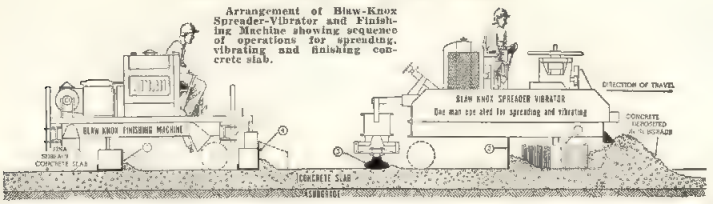
Rear View of Blaw-Knox Spreader-Vibrator on Single-Lane Paving showing Vibrated Concrete Slab.

Use This Up-to-Date Paving Method

Arrangement of Blaw-Knox Spreader-Vibrator and Finishing Machine showing sequence of operations for spreading, vibrating and finishing concrete slab.



1 -Automatic Transverse Spreading Blade spreads concrete transversely and at the same time pushes excess concrete ahead of machine, adjustable for spreading height.

2—Strike-off shapes concrete to required height and crown, allowing slight excess for compaction by vibrator. strike-off is hydraulically adjustable for elevation.

3—Vibratory attachment compacts concrete simultaneously with spreading operation; vibrator is spring suspended and does not rest on paving forms. All vibratory effect is transmitted directly to the concrete. Vibrator is controlled by spreader operator and leaves slight excess of concrete for finishing machine.

4—Finishing machine front screed strikes off excess of concrete to exact grade and crown. Finisher has easy and rapid operation, follows close behind Spreader-Vibrator.

5—Rear screed of finishing machine performs final finishing and smoothing operation.

The Blaw-Knox Model PF-90 Bituminous Paver has been proven on all kinds of paving jobs including turnpikes, state and county highways, airports, as well as smaller jobs such as parking areas.

It has the ability of out-producing other bituminous pavers through speed of operation and maneuverability, as well as improved quality of surface.

Its simple design, combined wheel operation with a floating screed and power steering, eliminate some 500 to 700 parts in comparison to crawler-type pavers resulting in much less costly operation and maintenance.

Wheel design makes steering smoother and more accurate with no whipping or sliding. It has better control of paving on curves through power braking and steering on wheel operation. Transportation and maneuverability are simplified. Truck stand-by time is reduced by 10 ton hopper capacity as well as faster mobility on the job.

Rubber-tired mounting together with long floating screed absorbs the irregularities of the road base as well as load changes resulting in smoother surface. Positive rubber traction at all times with 71 h.p. handles the heaviest trucks even on mountain grades.

With the PF-90 you can pave any mix, hot or cold, together with automatic leveling and uniform compaction resulting in better and more permanent pavement. Paving speeds up to 49′ per minute to easily handle material at the rate of 200 tons per hour and more.

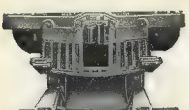
Famous American Flyer



Two-Rail Track
Just Like Real Trains

American Flyer Trains are not just toys, but authentic scale models of real trains. Every 3/16 of-an-inch in a car or locomotive equals one foot in a real railroad equipment. Youngsters, and grownups too, prefer railroad models that look and sound real to poorly-proportioned trains which are too high for their length or too wide for their height. Because of their realism, American Flyer trains have been used in miniature movie sets and on TV shows to represent real trains moving across the countryside. Except for expensive hobby equipment, American Flyer represents the only model trains built to scale. . . . Here are other American Flyer features:

TWO-RAIL TRACK—"T" shaped flat top tracks provide real traction for wheels just like real trains—no toy-look third rail running down the middle.

WORM DRIVE MOTOR. Gives more power for straightaways and grades. Allows locomotive to start and stop instantly. Installed in all A.F. locomotives.

REAL SMOKE AND CHOO CHOO ON STEAM ENGINES . . . realism at its best . . . open the throttle and glowing smoke puffs from the stack while choo-choos come from boiler

KNUCKLE COUPLERS ON ALL ENGINES AND CARS . . . Provide fool-proof operation and authentic realism. Opens by hand or automatically with remote control un-coupler.

REX SPEED PRIMER PUMPS

The REX Speed Primer is a self-priming centrifugal pump that has no equal for dewatering purposes. It is outstanding because of its simplicity in design.

This simplicity contributes to:

LONG LIFE — Fewer parts mean less wear.

EASE OF MAINTENANCE — All the wearing parts of the pump are accessible upon the removal of large pump cover plate. It is not necessary to remove the suction hose, when checking pump on the job, as must be done with many other makes of pumps.

SUSTAINED EFFICIENCY — The exclusive REX Adjustable Peeler helps to restore original efficiency even after long periods of severe usage.

It can be adjusted to compensate for wear inside the pump. No other pump has this feature.

Other replaceable units—Wearing plate, impeller, shaft seal—are all easy to get at upon removing the large cover plate.

All these features add up to low cost maintenance and long life under severe usage.

- What result does an average retailer get from TV toy merchandising?
- What about TV as an advertising medium for toy wholesalers and retailers?
- What can the toy industry do to make TV toy merchandising more profitable?

THE TOY INDUSTRY this fall will witness the largest number of manufacturers ever taking the plunge into television advertising and promotion. The next few years, according to Printer's Ink, business magazine of advertising, "will show a tremendous increase in over-all toy advertising expenditure, which last year totaled $1,500,000 (national) for magazines, television, radio and Sunday supplements."

Where do the toy wholesalers and retailers fit into this picture of an expanding promotional push? What do they think about television merchandising? What has been their actual experience on the firing line with the sale of toys which are tied-in with television?

On the following 22 pages, TOYS & NOVELTIES presents the first national round-up of factual information on this controversial subject. We've broken it down into four categories to make it easy for you to read.

• First, we took a typical town—here, our staff members spoke with every dealer who retails toys—specialty stores, department stores, variety chains, drug stores—even seasonal discount houses. "What happens in your store," we asked, "when toys are shown on TV?" Read their answers, and check the results against your store's records.

• Second, we went into a dozen different cities in various regional areas. Here, we checked with toy wholesalers and retailers who themselves are using TV as an advertising medium. We popped question after question at them: "What results have you had from your TV program?" "Just how do you use TV?" "What does your TV budget amount to?" From their answers, we've amassed a treasure-trove of valuable know-how, tried and tested.

• Third, we interviewed outstanding producers of TV shows. "Here's an industry which is expanding its investment in TV," we said. "The toy industry, in general, feels it's getting good results from TV promotions but knows that it hasn't capitalized to the fullest potential. What advice," we asked, "do you have to give the industry regarding television and the merchandising of toys?" The TV industry really came through—the producers even tell you how to get your items on TV for free!

• Finally, we canvassed toy manufacturers and TV character licensors to learn what is planned for fall and the coming Christmas season. The promotional push will be strong. The manufacturing industry is out for a ten per cent increase in dollar volume over 1955. And, it plans to put a bigger share of its ad dollars into television as a medium, backed up by a constructive program of trade and consumer advertising.—Cy B

IN POUGHKEEPSIE:

Here's what toy merchants think about television

Our editors probed the TV toy tie-in question with every retailer in this typical small city. Here's the lowdown.

By CY BERNSTEIN and JACK McDERMOTT

1. Television is uniformly accepted by retail merchants as being the most powerful single promotional medium with consumers. Its chief impact lies in pre-selling the child and the parent.

Retailers' enthusiasm varies in its intensity. Not all can claim the same good experience with pre-sold merchandise. For example, a top TV program for children has had contrasting effect on toy sales for two leading toy retailers. In essence, whether the monies spent annually on TV pay off at the retail level depends on each individual dealer's buying acumen, his ability to capitalize on national advertising, and his

"THERE should be a periodic bulletin telling us retailers what is scheduled for appearance on TV—plus the program's estimated listening audience. With such information, I'd be inclined to order sample lots for a start."—John D. Postlethwaite of Wallace's.

"TV is a sure source of temporary increase in toy sales—but, as soon as the promotion is turned off, the sales die out. Right now Mickey Mouse and Captain Kangaroo items are 'hot.' Our average off-season toy sale is $1."—Howard T. Wiggers of Wiggers.

accessibility to a quick source of supply.

One aggressive toy and juvenile furniture merchant described what TV promotion means to him: "When the Winky Dink show was on twice a week," he said, "I sold two to three dozen Winky Dink games a week. Since TV promotion slackened, I've been selling just a few items a month."

2. TV loses full impact because most retailers (and their wholesale resources) are kept in the dark as to what toys will be shown and when.

Each retailer interviewed concurred

"THE MOTHERS among my customers are more influenced by toys they see demonstrated on TV than by toys that only bear a performer's name. TV games that had demonstration were terrific last winter. I ran low on supply."—George Seaman of Luckey, Platt, Inc.

on one TV merchandising shortcoming. The retailers were unanimous in citing their troubles in tieing-in with TV promotions. The complaint is that either the television promotion was sprung without any prior notice to the retailer or, that once being made aware of the TV publicity he was unable to get adequate follow-through in the form of merchandise from his jobber.

Granted that the toy retailer overlooks studio technicalities which can make advance notice improbable, he does feel that the manufacturer who pays to put toys on television (be it a sponsored program, participating or just publicity) should take the obvious step and be sure his jobbers and dealers can profit thereby.

Most blunt in criticism was a department store advertising manager who said, "Cooperation between the manufacturer and the retailer in the toy business stinks. He (the manufacturer) doesn't tell the retailer about his national or localized television advertising."

At another store, with about $70,000 annual toy volume, the buyer stated that if he received periodic notice advising him what is scheduled to be shown on television, he would sample-order as a matter of course on each item to be shown.

Many dealers pointed out that they are unable to watch the shows their customers see. They dislike being placed in the position of having to wait for a child or parent to request an item shown on TV before the retailer has a chance to stock it. Often, several merchants indicated, it takes them several days to track down the item shown so that they can place an order for it.

3. Getting stock of TV toys in time to sell while interest is high is more difficult for non-metropolitan area retailers than for big-city stores.

A long-established, conservative toy shop in town mentioned at length the trouble encountered in getting quick delivery in time to share in the impetus created by TV. The proprietor finds his jobbers unprepared to meet a sudden demand created by TV promotion.

TELEVISION is big sales impetus, according to Jack Haber, shown here before his combination toy, juvenile furniture and bike repair shop. Haber says his healthy volume in all lines is due to family following, good will.

TOYS COMPRISE the largest single section at Kresge's Main street store, which is soon to be superseded by a brand new outlet with triple the floor space. John W. Liggett, store manager, takes position near toy counter.

He, and several other operators in town, claim they are at a disadvantage when it comes to quick capitalizing on a promotion. These dealers resent the fact that big-city stores can advertise availability of TV toys immediately following a show because the telecasting studios often check the big stores for stock availability and mention their names. "We're in the receiving area of every New York TV program," one chain store buyer pointed out, "but the networks who gloat over their national coverage rush out to tie-in with a single big-city store. We often see the big-name stores advertising in the bulldog editions of the city papers merchandise tied-in with a TV show which we don't even know is on schedule. The cream-off-the-top sales then are taken from our area by mail-order to those stores."

4. Those toys that are demonstrated on TV are the toys that sell best. A toy which is well-demonstrated pulls better than one which merely is shown.

The appearance of a toy on a "name" show is not enough to stimulate top sales appeal, but will sell some.

The merchants were unanimous in naming the same shows as being "good kid shows." They agreed on those performers who did a good job of demonstrating, of actually knowing the toy and what it would do. They also knew those performers who most often gave a product the brush-off by handling it as if they'd never seen it before.

One department store buyer said he was tempted to carry only the toys that are demonstrated on TV and to "do away with his catalog."

The owner of a toy and juvenile furniture store, doing about $80,000 a year on toys and wheel goods, said, "If any of my salespeople couldn't do a better demonstration job than is done by many of the TV performers, I'd can them."

5. A TV personality can be over-promoted and so kill the goose that's laying the golden eggs.

A number of store-owners and department buyers or managers cite the bitter experience that can result when a TV personality is over-exploited. All point to inventories still on shelves from last year's Davy Crockett promotion when non-licensed manufacturers rushed in to climb on the bandwagon and glutted the market. They are still apprehensive of "big-name" TV personalities who extend licensing arrangements into myriad types of merchandise.

"There is a period," one manager mentioned, "where mama will buy TV-promoted things just to keep Johnnie happy. But, the time arrives when if he asks for just one more thing with that name on it—brother, that's it—he gets slapped down. Davy Crockett just went too far afield and mama got mad."

6. The time to gather the golden eggs is immediately. Demand starts immediately after TV presentation. It can be revived, in most cases, even after a dormant period.

Dealers agree that the time to cash in on TV promotions is within 24 hours after its presentation. Several dealers claimed they could judge the life and intensity of demand for a toy according to how it was demonstrated by the TV performer. "Your phone starts ringing as soon as the show is off the air, if it's a good seller," said one retailer.

SIZABLE toy department at W. T. Grant's is located in store basement under direction of Shirley Meddaugh. Elevated displays give 'tone' to section.

A majority of dealers reported excellent results with Winky Dink items. Some of the games identified with TV quiz, giveaway or feature programs sell. Those which sell best are those which simulate the action of the program, not merely capitalize on the performer's name. A number of retailers reported continuing success with Betsy Wetsy and Tiny Tears dolls, Woodniks, Potato Head.

The impact on sales, however, produced by TV promotion is of transitory importance, according to all dealers interviewed. They claim that when an item goes off the air, sales collapse. In

THE SALES staff at J. J. Newberry keeps tab on customer requests, knows (and gets!) the TV tie-ins that are in demand. Ed Porter, assistant manager, says that store is following trend to greater emphasis on toys and hobbies.

"DISNEYLAND IN MINIATURE" was the toy selling theme last Christmas at Schuneman's. The large corner window above and smaller displays lured shoppers to a Disneyland-decorated toy department.

IN ST. PAUL, SCHUNEMAN SAYS:

Great traffic and sales builder

TV SELLS TOYS

THE wide-awake toy department of Schuneman's, Inc., St. Paul, Minn., which operates on a year-round basis, knows the value of pushing merchandise which ties in with TV programs.

"Television is a great medium for advertising toys," said Mildred Ryan, buyer. "Children follow television programs closely and continuously. Toys which are seen on such programs are the ones for which there is the greatest demand.

"A toy department which recognizes this appeal to children becomes a popular place. We tie-in at Schuneman's with every local and national program possible and find it effective in building traffic and getting sales."

Schuneman's past Christmas promotion stressed a Disneyland theme. A large corner window and a bank of supporting window displays featured toys from Disneyland.

To tie-in with popular cowboy programs appearing on television, Schuneman's features cowboy suits identified with the particular program on which the costume was worn. Full use is made of display material supplied by the manufacturers to bring recognition of the merchandise and the program.

A completely coordinated promotion was recently made with a number of games in the Happy Hour line. The line is extensively advertised on a number of television programs and Schuneman's made a neat and attractive promotional package with Happy Hour game ads in the Sunday newspaper, window displays and a selling-demonstration feature in a big traffic aisle. In the toy department a special booth was set up for selling and demonstration.

During last summer's Crockett craze Schuneman's went all out with newspaper advertising, each insertion mentioning the television show, "Frontierland."

Toy buyer Ryan admits she is an avid televiewer of children's programs. "I learn a lot from them," she says.

IN BOSTON, JORDAN, FILENE AND STEARNS

Tie-in displays with televised toys

• Boston merchants are well aware of the sales benefits resulting from a toy's television appearance. All toy merchandisers, even those not using the television advertising medium, are keenly interested watchers of programs on which toys are introduced and demonstrated. They recognize many a toy's path of fame and fortune is along the coaxial cable and they are alert to the potential best sellers being shown.

The toy department of the Jordan Marsh store makes regular use of TV spot advertising. The spots are of twenty-second duration, and are not presented in any regular sequence.

Jordan's keeps a close eye on its toy inventory, watching with particular care the rate of sale of each item. When a promising item is spotted, it is given the added impetus of a spot commercial. Such efforts are coordinated with counter features at key traffic points and window displays.

The toy shop of William Filene's Sons store frequently arranges interior displays to tie-in with a television toy presentation. Illustrations and cut-outs of cartoon and other characters are prominently displayed in the toy department and on ledges where they can be seen across the entire youth floor.

R. H. Stearns makes occasional use of television and radio spots and reserves front-space display for any TV-advertised toys.

IN PHILADELPHIA, WANAMAKER SAYS:

This year TV will exert an even greater influence

"ONLY a surface job has been done in working television for greater toy sales," according to Eugene Bruni, buyer at John Wanamaker's.

Television, he believes, has a vast sell potential which is still virtually untapped. "I don't think we've reached the peak. In 1956 television will exert a greater influence on toy sales than it has in the past," says Bruni.

Wanamaker's recently witnessed proof of the pull that a TV idol has for his young fans. Although a civic parade had been widely announced and drew crowds to downtown Philadelphia, a local TV performer, "Uncle Pete" Boyle of WRCV-TV's Fun House, entertained hundreds of kids in Wanamaker's toy department at the precise time that the parade outside was at its peak.

In Philadelphia, "Uncle Pete" appears with Crusader Rabbit, symbol of Tryne Sales Inc.'s Crusader Rabbit TV game.

Bruni says his department accepted this experience as "a pretty good indication of the drawing power of television, and its demand-creating capacity."

The success of a program and its main star are of prime importance to any promotion that uses them, Bruni states. The Pete Boyle show, which he offers as an example, has child appeal and a strong following in the city.

PHILADELPHIA YOUNGSTERS, the first to meet Crusader Rabbit in person, thronged to shake the paw of TV's funny bunny. "Uncle Pete" Boyle autographed games.

His appearance in the Wanamaker department was heralded in the daily papers and he (Pete Boyle) made frequent announcement during his program that he was scheduled to appear at Wanamaker's with Crusader Rabbit. A spurt in mail and phone orders for the game was noted.

Boyle appeared at Wanamaker's on a Saturday afternoon and greeted his young guests from a stage set up for him by the store. The youngsters were encouraged to sit on the carpeted floor while viewing his show. Purchasers of the Crusader Rabbit game received an "Uncle Pete" autograph.

A similar promotion at Wanamaker's was held for Tryne's "Think" game, which had likewise been given TV publicity. This time, the creator of the game was on hand in the department following a newspaper announcement.

IN PHILADELPHIA, LIT BROS. SAYS:

Toys in action create demand

"SO LONG as the children see how they work, toys get excellent response – whether they are actually tied-in with a TV character or are simply promoted on the program." The quote is from David Levington, buyer at Lit Brothers.

Lit's confidence in the "pull-power" of kiddie TV programs shows in its in-store promotion. For Christmas, 1955, Lit's converted the toy department into a miniature Disneyland, complete with replicas of Tomorrowland, Frontierland, Fantasyland and the Mickey Mouse Club.

Stage-settings were closely patterned after the originals in Anaheim, Calif. Tomorrowland featured miniatures of the buildings of the future, including Mickey Mouse as a space cadet.

Frontierland and Fantasyland similarly played-up the Disney characters with whom the kids have become familiar via the Mickey Mouse show.

To get a still greater variety of interest in the department, a character from another TV show was recruited. An appearance by the Lone Ranger in November drew about 22,000 persons during the four hours he was at the store. "This," says Levington, "was a pretty good indication of the drawing power of TV personalities."

In order to meet demands for toys due to be presented on manufacturer-sponsored programs, Lit's gives the item a prominent display position and alerts toy departments at branch store operations.

"So far," says Levington, "manufacturers have done a good job of letting us know well in advance about toys they intend promoting, so that we are well prepared for the new demand."

THE LONE RANGER was not alone at Lit Bros. The cowboy star drew about 22,000 in a 4-day visit to the store.

GEORGE AND BETTY GOLDSTEIN gather Babyland toys and games to be given away on the "Dusty Walker Show" on KVAR, NBC-TV's Phoenix outlet.

IN PHOENIX, BABYLAND

Provides toys as prizes, gets TV plugs

TV SELLS TOYS

TV is credited with being the main prop for maintaining toy volume during off seasons by George Goldstein, owner of Babyland, who has made direct and indirect use of television for approximately one year with what Goldstein considers to be excellent results.

The type of television promotion most consistently used by Goldstein is an indirect one, but the results from it have proved very favorable. Instead of directly sponsoring a television show, Babyland regularly provides toys for prizes and birthday gifts awarded to participants from the studio audience at a local children's program. In return for the toys the store is given identification at the time each gift is presented.

The program is the "Dusty Walker Show," a 30-minute live show followed by an hour of western movies. Dusty Walker, the master of ceremonies and chief entertainer, comments on the prize itself and talks about other interesting things to be found at Babyland.

Goldstein says, "The value of the toys we donate is approximately $25 a week. One or two or more are given on each show. The arrangement with the show is an exclusive one for Babyland.

"Toys and games are chosen at random from our stock," he continued, "and they are usually in the $1 to $2 class. Occasionally we give a $3 or $4 toy when we have some novelty to which we wish to direct attention, or to dispose of a slow item.

"Not only do these giveaways create a demand for the toys used, but they keep the name of Babyland constantly in the minds of the youngsters and any older folks watching."

On two or three occasions Mrs. Goldstein has made personal appearances on programs to demonstrate a new or out-of-the ordinary toy. In each instance there was a marked display of interest from viewers, and increased demand for the toys demonstrated has been experienced not only by Babyland, by wholesalers of the area as well.

Spot TV sells seasonal items

In June, Babyland used a series of television spots to promote plastic swimming pools and swim accessories. Goldstein used a large display of pools and playground equipment on a vacant lot across the street from the store, and this attracted passersby and those drawn by the television spots.

"We count on television spots not only to increase pool business, but, along with our giveaways, they keep the Babyland name in the public mind and eye," Goldstein commented. "TV has already proved its worth to us for maintaining toy volume in the ordinarily slack seasons, and we expect to make the best use of it that our advertising budget will permit in the forthcoming season and in the future."

IN ROSWELL, WILMOT HARDWARE USES TV

Gets good results from series promoting a toy category weekly

• Mrs. Ruth Uhrig, manager, Wilmot Hardware Co. Toyland, Roswell, N. M., reports: "In 1956 we used television for the promotion of toys during the Easter season. Stuffed toys were featured when we found they were lagging in sales. Good results were secured from only one showing of our Easter bunnies."

All television promotions of toys at Wilmot's Toyland have been in the form of one-minute spot announcements. Mrs. Uhrig always makes a personal appearance on the program, which is held once a week for about four weeks. Then another series starts. One series is devoted to toddler toys, and one each for boys and girls toys. Each program is given to a showing of toys of different age groups and of varying activity.

Mrs. Uhrig has high regard for the recognition value of television. "They see it on television and find it in our store," she noted.

The Wilmot firm has made use of one-minute films distributed by Universal Mfg. Co. for its Gym Dandy line and by Mattel, Inc.

IN BUFFALO, ADAM, MELDRUM & ANDERSON SAYS:

Complete tie-in assures success

TV SELLS TOYS

A THREE WAY tie-in with TV, newspaper and store promotions gets the consumer dollar.

Clyde French, buyer at Adam, Meldrum & Anderson Co., works the triple-play routine beginning with a Friday night TV show. On Sunday, he runs a full page ad in the local paper to feature the same merchandise. A large display is simultaneously prepared in the toy department for early week store traffic.

French has checked the results of this promotion and found that every sale made on Monday and Tuesday of such a week was to a person who had seen the TV demonstration and the ad!

But, cautions buyer French, a TV show that tries to play up too many toys, or that has too much activity among the items, may draw an unsatisfactory response. He advises featuring a "few appealing items which are well demonstrated allowing for the viewers to form an impression."

The staff at A. M. & A. keeps an alert eye on television for in-store promotion possibilities. Says French "It is necessary to follow TV advertisements for toys and games. We want to be ready when parents and youngsters ask for promoted items.

"However, we have found that it is not wise to stock too heavily of such merchandise until there is an established demand."

When there is a request for some special item seen on a TV program and not yet carried by the department, every effort is made to get it in stock for the interested child or parent.

The Macy Santa Claus parade in New York has a considerable effect on toy purchases in Buffalo, French has learned. Both the kids and their parents feel the impetus of this giant promotion.

As French puts it, the trick is to gauge the demand that will be created; interest may be short-lived on one-shot appearances.

"We can always put a quick order through for a special item. Just to be on the safe side, we usually order a dozen or so of any new toy or game until we see what the customer response will be."

During the holiday season, French and his sales staff make a special point of telling customers to watch television programs that show character toys or games to be available in the store.

Recent practice at Adam, Meldrum & Anderson has been to "air" its own television show. These have generally evolved around "canned" programs which are provided by toy manufacturers.

French reports reasonably good cooperation with suppliers where there can be a tie-in with a regular television program and store demonstration. Coordination with the Captain Kangaroo show has been particularly good.

A regular year-round highlight at the store is a section of tables for display of popular TV toys. These are grouped around posters which call attention to them as "TV Favorites."

IN HONOLULU, HAWAII TOY HOUSE

Plans aggressive layaway series

• JUST LIKE on the continental U.S., businessmen here are TV-oriented. To date, the most aggressive promoters on the island are wholesalers and manufacturers.

Foremost among them is Hawaii Toy House, a wholesaler and manufacturer of Kiddy-Pak Toys. Toy House has used 120-second live demonstration spots on KGMB-TV's "Sheriff Ken's Posse" and will repeat the series in the coming season. First-off is to be a layaway promotion (this month) for plastic Christmas trees made by Warren Christmas Trees of San Bernardino, Calif.

Klik Klak Blocks (Pico Novelty Co., Los Angeles) also plans extensive TV coverage via Hawaii Toy House.

KONA-TV's "Just Kids" has had live and film spots in past seasons from toy departments at Mark Young Co., Sears, Boystowne and Eki Cyclery.

IN ALBUQUERQUE, TOY STORES

Open doll layaway push early

TV SELLS TOYS

C. B. Davis, Davis 5 & 10c Stores, Albuquerque, N. M., is a toy dealer who has scored outstanding results from the use of TV. Each of Davis' three stores has a large toy department featuring nationally advertised lines. The firm also operates a store selling toys and gifts exclusively, Toyland.

Each year since 1952 Mrs. Davis has made an appearance on a half-hour doll show early in August. The television program features film and live entertainment: cartoons, local musical talent, and a regular doll fashion show. On every show the announcement is made that "Next week is Davis' layaway sale!"

Another volume builder for the Davis stores, starting in September, will be a series of live demonstrations of new additions to the Davis toy stocks.

Last December KOB-TV, Albuquerque, the channel that handles all of the Davis programs, cooperated with a Christmas toy festival featuring a group of local entertainment favorites. It proved to be an outstanding promotion, sales-wise and by the good public relations created, and will be repeated this year.

Another major toy dealer in Albuquerque, the Toy and Yarn Shop, uses a fifteen-minute program once a week. It begins in September and runs until Christmas, with the main promotional drive being directed to trains and dolls.

In 1955 the Toy and Yarn Shop purchased the Little Rascals film to be shown by live commercials. The Toy and Yarn Shop sales message was delivered by a local girl personality who gave the required demonstration of each item

IN RALEIGH, BRIGGS' HARDWARE TELLS

How to create an SRO show with local talent, low cost

"THE WAY to reach children via television is by advertising with t h e m—n o t a t them."

Briggs' Hardware Co. is convinced that this is done by using kid performers on TV shows. Sales results have been so gratifying that the firm appears to have proved its point.

"Toy sales will climb and climb," says James E. Briggs of his TV Christmas Parties.

"A program like this snowballs and is among the least expensive shows that a merchant can produce. It has intense local interest that holds and grows. It promotes itself and never becomes old."

Briggs builds his show on child appeal and the small fry's desire to perform.

The talent search in Raleigh is no problem. Groups of kids from private, public, dancing, dramatic and Sunday schools are among those used on the program. They work up their own show format; each performing group supplies its own master of ceremonies.

Briggs holds that children, when untrained, make fine performers. He says they are more popular for local audiences than professionals.

As planned for Christmas, 1955, the show was on for a quarter-hour from 5:45 p. m. beginning the day after Thanksgiving and for three times a week until December 24. Each session opened up with the TV camera played on a sign proclaiming that the viewer was watching "Briggs' Christmas Party."

Seconds later the camera faded into a full shot of the 20x12′ background disclosing shelves of toys. A close-up of the individual toys followed, then the camera picked up the studio audience with children and parents applauding.

After each show in the series, candy, bubble gum, pop guns or ice cream and cake was distributed. These were generally provided free by local distributors in exchange for a plug at the end of program.

"One of the economies of a show like this, in addition to low talent cost," observes Briggs, "is that there is practically no promotional cost. You have the best advertisers in the world in happy, enthusiastic children who have appeared on the program, or whose friends recognized them in studio audience shots.

"After the initial two programs we had all the talent and audience we could handle."

Actually, as Briggs points out, such a show can become so successful that it will outgrow itself and the limitations of local television facilities.

Briggs Hardware Co. not only retails toys but wholesales them as well. Hardware, variety and department stores in the local TV area who purchase toys through Briggs are "plugged" on the shows.

The "hard sell" advertising is got in during a two-minute commercial in the middle of the program. Sometimes toys are indicated by special spotlight, other times they are sold "Arthur Godfrey" style, being wheeled in on a cart for special demonstration.

The seeds are here for a successful toy television presentation, says dealer Briggs. "Plant 'em and jump back! Get out of the way because the show will grow so fast that it will knock you down."

In-store promotion

A "magic" box at Briggs' Toyland is set up for the youngster to drop in a card bearing his name, address and the name of the toy he would most like to possess.

This is for prospect list purposes!

For each of the shows in the TV series, however, a child's name is drawn from the box. He (or she) becomes guest of honor on a subsequent show—and is publicly presented with his cherished toy.

Televiewers learn how to spin a top

Peterson ave., Chicago, sponsored a Monsekatop contest.

IN LUBBOCK, THREE TOY RETAILERS REPORT:

Womack's phones ring while show is on

Mrs. Rufus Womack, who with her husband owns and manages Womack's stores at a downtown location and also in the newest shopping center in Lubbock, Texas, reports: "Television time has proven very profitable for us. Judged on the basis of dollar sales return," she said, "this type of promotion is the best."

The Womacks purchased time at the half-way break of a 30-minute show, "Saturday Playtime." The program is live, with local children displaying their talents as guests on the show.

Mrs. Womack personally selected a boy or girl from store customers to model clothes and to play with and demonstrate toys sold in the store.

As Mrs. Womack states: "We always include appropriate toys during the performance of the youngsters. It is a splendid opportunity to introduce and describe the new merchandise in our line. We often receive telephone calls while the program is still on requesting information on the merchandise being shown."

Contrasting this on-the-spot response to that of customers who show a delayed reaction, Mrs. Womack cites the lasting effect of a television presentation. Some customers, she says, will recall an earlier program and come in to ask for a toy a considerable time after it was first shown.

Mrs. Womack is particularly pleased to note that the program has an impact on youngsters over a wide trade area. They come to Womack's recalling the events seen on the television program, and are drawn from stores nearer their homes. The youngster have specifically requested their parents to take them to Womack's

S. S. S. Drug attributes 100% volume gain to its TV show

S. S. S. Drug toys sales rose 100 per cent in 1955, and the entire gain is attributed to its television program.

R. J. Simmons, owner-manager, reports: "Our new toy department for 1956 is considerably larger than it was last year. S. S. S. Drug is using television on a much greater scale to promote the sale of toys. We fully expect to gain another 100 per cent at the close of toy business, Christmas 1956, as we had the preceding year." The firm has had such outstanding success with television that 98 per cent of their advertising budget is presently allocated for this medium.

The S. S. S. Drug 1956 Christmas promotion of toys and general merchandise will be launched in July to allow time for an anticipated increase in layaway business. In putting their program on television screens, S. S. S. Drug provides the television announcer with a fact sheet listing the prices of the sale items. Three or four promotional items are stressed each week and each is compared to the price of the same item in competitive outlets. The announcer is allowed to sell the merchandise in his own language.

Last year, S. S. S. Drug began its Christmas selling season in September with live demonstration commercials spotted throughout the day and after 10:30 at night. Time was purchased on two late movies a week to carry the evening program. The store's layaway plan was the big promotional punch delivered at the start in September.

Profits from the sale of televised toys directly account for the purchase of the bank building next door and the expansion of S. S. S. Drug facilities.

TV impetus leads Milam's to expand

T. E. Milam, owner of Milam's Toyland, 1402 Broadway, Lubbock, Texas, is a long-time user of television to give added impetus to the sale of toys. He states: "We have used one-minute spots on both channels covering this area. He adds that at the present time Toyland is using spots preceding "Disneyland" and the response, in terms of floor traffic and sales, has been highly satisfactory.

Toyland's television audience is one representing better than average income and an intelligent interest in new toys and their play value

"We have found the television medium to be very successful in reaching this type of audience. We can explain the characteristics of a toy," said Milam, "pointing up its play value and construction features. And then we can demonstrate its action."

The Milam store uses both spot commercials and bits on the weather program.

The increase in sales and profits by the television merchandising of toys is a considerable factor in the Milam expansion program now under way. Milam's will soon open a new Toyland at 2862-72 34th st. in Lubbock, the second unit there, in addition to the shop operated in Amarillo. The overall cost of the new Toyland is approximately $100,000.

Television advertising figures prominently in the operating plans, present and future, of the Milam organization. Like many other retailers, the Milam merchandisers know that nothing, but nothing, sells a toy like seeing it and that television is the ideal medium to show it.

Previously described as a long-time user of television, T. E. Milam can also be identified among the strongest advocates of this type of advertising.

FAIRFORM FLYER

SYMBOL OF YACHT PERFECTION

So . . . you're going to buy a boat! And now that you have scanned the wordy and pictorial presentation of cruising yachts in this voluminous magazine, you have doubtless drawn one of two conclusions. Either that you should place your order, on the evidence presented, or you are so completely befuddled by the similarity of claims, among boatbuilders, for Quality and Performance, that further intelligent investigation is certainly warranted.

No written word or picture can possibly portray the difference in Quality and Performance between the Fairform Flyer and other boats. Nor can viewing a boat on the showroom floor prove anything. They may all seem perfect until you get them afloat!

You should make the same searching investigation of boats as you would in making any other important investment. Boats vary in quality far more than you probably realize. They are a complex combination of movement and living. As a vehicle they must survive the roughest waters and tumultuous storms they ever encounter, with no handy roadside service station to tinker them if they fail. As Habitation, they must have all the comforts of home, in more compact form, totally free from chronic irritation; with culinary, sanitary and other apparatus that functions unfailingly. Also — and this is most important — do not overlook the vital matter of Safety.

Operating and upkeep economy are vastly more consequential than in a car. Nor do you turn her in every couple of years, for a new one, any more than you do your home, whereby durability and longevity are of great importance. Almost none of these factors are realized in a cheap boat and few of them in anything but the very best boat. You buy a boat for Health and Happiness and unless she is safe, comfortable and free from irritation, you have wasted your time and money. It is much simpler to select the Fairform Flyer in the first place.

Hence, if you contemplate acquiring a cruiser or Sport Fisherman, we urge that you visit the Huckins plant and marina, to examine Fairform Flyers under construction, run on them and investigate with the same care as in making any less romantic investment. It pays.

MAMARONECK MARINE

Bumps and scrapes are the inevitable lot of many a small boat tied up at a busy dock—that is, unless the dock is equipped with a new device called the Bascome Boat Holder. It actually makes it impossible for a boat to swing, touch, or damage its neighbors. The Bascome Boat Holder provides a private slip at all times.

Adjustable to all floats, the Bascome Boat Holder is a mounted pair of crossed arms which gently embrace the bow of the boat as she noses into the dock. Shock coils in the shoulder of the Holder bring the slowly-moving boat to a bumpless halt and hold her in proper position. The Holder does the same trick for dinghies, prams, small sailboats, and most other craft of 16 feet or less in length.

The Bascome Boat Holder is manufactured by Mamaroneck Marine Specialties Co., Inc., Box 188, Mamaroneck, N. Y.

PLATH MAGNETIC COMPASS

The Plath T-51 magnetic compass, made in Germany for the American market, is being offered by Weems & Plath, Inc., Annapolis, Maryland. This compass represents a good utility type for motor or sailing craft of all sizes. It contains a new "ring magnet" which is being introduced for the first time on the American market although it has been used to some extent in other countries previously. The ring magnet produces better lines of magnetic force and the circular pattern of the magnets creates less resistance in the compass liquid than the usual two parallel bar magnets. The overall effect is a much steadier card with less oscillation.

Another advantage of this compass is the internal gimballing of the card and the lubber line. The lubber line remains in the same relative position to the card when the boat is heeled over. This is especially advantageous in a sailing craft which is heeled over in the same direction for a considerable period of time when running on a given tack. If the lubber line is painted or attached to the bowl on an internally gimballed (spherical domed) compass the card takes a slightly different position with respect to the lubber line during a roll

SCOTT HYDRO-PAK

Hydro-Pak, a new self-contained underwater breathing equipment, introduced by Scott Aviation Corporation, Lancaster, New York, permits you to stay underwater for over a half hour in perfect comfort and safety.

Hydro-Pak features a full face mask for natural breathing through nose and mouth. A large, safety-glass "picture window" permits a wide, clear field of vision. The unit is ideal for underwater maintenance and marine repair work. Automatic air regulators located at both sides of the mask permit easy breathing.

Other features include an Air Economiser for conserving the compressed air supply while wearing the Hydro-Pak above water. The unit also features a short, tough breathing hose that's out of the way where it can't snag or interfere with freedom of movement. Other important details are the full back plate, air reserve mechanism and water ejection button.

DRESSER ELECTRIC

Dresser Electric Co. celebrates their tenth year in the marine battery charging field by expanding their marine rectifier line to include a battery-charging pack for outboard and utility users and an individual trickle charger, both in six-volt and twelve-volt, for the small boat owner.

The tremendous advance in electrical devices and accessories used on small and large craft today makes it a must to have a battery-charger, either on board or portable type to assure the owner his batteries are fully charged. The large D. C. power equipment in voltages from six volt up to 110 volt at amperages from ten amp up to any desired requirement has been used for years by the largest pleasure craft builders in the world and is designed and engineered on the same lines as the industrial units being used by Government agencies, laboratories and the automotive field furnished by Dresser.

The small battery box portable pack, with either six-volt or twelve-volt charger, is Dresser's latest offering to the outboard field, together with the six-volt or twelve-volt overnight charging unit, which may be used in the owner's small boat, garage or convenient location for 110 volt A. C. input.

Right: Dresser's battery box portable pack with a 6- or 12-volt charger for outboarders. Left: With the Scott Hydro-Pak you can stay below for over half an hour.

BEN SOKOLOFF ANNOUNCES SKAT, NEW WORD GAME

A new spelling game called Skat, manufactured by Alphablox Unlimited and for which Ben Sokoloff of New York is the distributor, promises to become an important addition to the word-game category.

Introduced into Macy's without fanfare two weeks before Christmas, this $1.50 retailer managed to fascinate several thousand buyers with its special word-building qualities, Mr Sokoloff asserted.

The game, which can be played solitaire or by any number of players, without boards or turntables, consists of 12 polished hardwood blocks, each block having a different combination of letters, each block having a vowel, and each block having letters on four sides running in the same direction around the blocks: one letter in black, one in green with a single dot under it, one letter in blue with two dots under it and one letter in red with three dots under it for different scoring values. The top and bottom of each block is blank. All the letters of the alphabet are included plus a star, which may be used in place of any letter. Duplicates of those letters most frequently used in the English language make up the balance of the 48 letters on the blocks. Patents are pending.

The game comes in an attractive transparent, hinged plastic box which can be carried in a woman's purse or man's pocket, and contains a tough cardboard shaker surrounded by the colorful blocks, with playing rules in full view.

The object of the game is for each player, in turn, to toss all the blocks onto the playing table and spell out as many interlocking or crosswords as possible with the letters that fall face up, discarding the blanks.

Players score one point for each letter they use plus the dots. Players who spell out all their face-up letters earn a double score. There is an additional bonus of 25 points for players who spell out the word Skat.

BEN COOPER MAKING RIN TIN TIN COSTUMES

The beloved hero of the tremendously popular TV program, "Adventures of Rin Tin Tin," is now being presented in a realistic and attractive masquerade costume by Ben Cooper, Inc.

This costume will feature a remarkably realistic latex mask and will be completed by a coverall type of costume made of rayon taffeta decorated with authentic screen design. Traditionally, animal costumes have been very popular for Hallowe'en costumes, and the Ben Cooper firm feels that this nationally televised animal character promises to be one of the best sellers in their line of authentic character costumes.

The Rin Tin Tin costume is being made to retail for $2.98, and is on display at the permanent Cooper showrooms at 200 Fifth Avenue, Room 325, as well as in Rooms 441-3 at the Sheraton-McAlpin Hotel during the Toy Fair. In attendance will be Ben Cooper, Nat Cooper, Al Grossberg, Sam Drelich, Herbert Drelich, Mildred Levy, and the entire sales staff.

Katz Announces Addition to "Toy Lines of Distinction"

A Buddy-L truck, 1956-style ...

... and one of years-ago vintage

Henry Katz, president of the Henry Katz National Sales Organization, 200 Fifth Avenue, New York City, has announced the addition of another line of outstanding toys to the list of "toy lines of distinction" represented by his firm on an exclusive basis throughout the United States. The new line is that of Tot Guidance, Inc., manufacturers of play-tested toys for preschool children.

All the items in this new line will be made in colorful, unbreakable plastic, each item individually boxed in an attractive display package. Two of the Tot Guidance items, pictured here, are: the "Count-a-Clock" and Plastic Beads. Another, just introduced, is the "Junior Milkman Set." These toys are available for immediate delivery, with several additional items to be added to the line shortly.

The principals of Tot Guidance, Inc., are Moe Levensfeld and Mack Buxbaum.

Mr. Katz had this to say about the new line: "Our entire sales staff is very enthusiastic about the new Tot Guidance line. They feel certain their customers will have as much success with it as they have had in the past with our other lines of distinction.'"

Among the latter are the Buddy-L Lifetime Steel Toys, Bar-Zim Games and musical toys; Mello-Tone pianos; easel boards from the T. J. Ely Mfg. Company; Globe Sporting Goods' baseball, football, basketball and boxing equipment; Kiddie Brush & Toy Company's Susy Goose Sets and the new Super Market and Superette, Walter Kraemer & Company's bicycles, soldier sets, musical tops and dolls; Main Machine's juvenile lawn furniture, table and chair sets, and the new Mustang paper-shooting machine gun; Ranger Steel's metal games; Union Hardware Company's Springfield Roller Skates; Stevens Products' Donald Duck Projector and Disney Picture Gun; Western Stamping Company's brand new line of Tom Thumb Cash Registers and a new model of the Tom Thumb Typewriter ("a sellout for the fifth straight year"); C. G. Wood Company's electric irons, ironing boards, laundry sets, stoves and pool tables; and Worcester Toy Company's tea sets, and polyethylene telephones.

VOGUE DOUBLES N.Y.C. SHOWROOM SPACE FOR CUSTOMER CONVENIENCE

Vogue Dolls, Inc., has doubled the size of its New York office-showroom, Room 656, 200 Fifth Avenue, to enable buyers to view the entire new "Ginny" and "Ginette" lines. Regional Vogue representatives will greet buyers there during the Toy Fair this month.

The new system will provide superior service for Vogue customers, as all records will be on file and up-to-the-minute at the expanded space.

With the new arrangement, buyers may place orders as they examine the line, which has been completely redesigned in every detail to include 60 new "styles of tomorrow" plus matching new accessories for the Vogue family.

As in the past, clothing displayed on "Ginny" and "Ginette" at the Fair will preview the actual styles of children's apparel to appear throughout the coming year.

Two new features have been added to the Vogue lines this year as added selling aids. One will see each item pre-marked, eliminating a time-consuming chore for the retailer. The tag will be perforated, and may be removed easily for gift items.

Another plus for the 1956 Vogue dolls: the Parents Magazine seal of approval recently awarded both "Ginny" and "Ginette" for meeting the high standards of safety, design, and durability established by the Parents Institute. Each Vogue package will carry the seal.

NATIONWIDE PROMOTIONS PLANNED FOR EFFANBEE'S "MELODIE" DOLL

Bernie Baum, president of Effanbee Doll Company, 200 Fifth Avenue, New York City 10, states that their "Melodie" talking doll has been meeting with a reception that exceeds his most optimistic expectations. Introduced earlier this year and aptly described as the talking doll with the "golden voice," Effanbee's "Melodie" does just about everything—it talks, walks, sings, kneels and prays.

Says Mr. Baum: "In all our years in the doll business I cannot recall when we have ever come up with a doll idea that is so completely new and different. It is the result of our determined effort to produce a doll that would do just about everything a little girl would want a doll to do. Just think, there is nothing to wind up, all the little lady has to do is to push the magic button and—presto!—Melodie recites her favorite poems and jingles, sings "Rock a-Bye Baby" and other nursery songs, and even kneels and says her prayers."

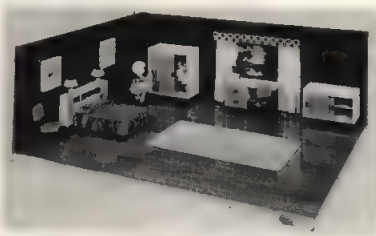
Mr. Baum went on to say that behind Melodie's "golden voice" is a simple, foolproof talking unit which runs on only two flashlight batteries—good for hundreds and hundreds of playings—and is so easy any child can operate it without complicated instructions.

Reflecting the Effanbee tradition of quality in every particular, the "Melodie" Doll is 30" tall and dressed in a fine-quality, printed organdie dress with a lace-trimmed taffeta slip and panty, shoes and socks. She has a high grade straw bonnet modeled in "sweetheart" style and her beautiful vinyl head is graced with rooted Saran hair that can be washed, combed and set. Her jointed knees have been carefully designed to give great flexibility and the doll can walk, sit or kneel with the greatest of ease. Each "Melodie" Doll comes with three unbreakable records with an assortment of songs, jingles, poems and prayers, together with a song sheet with words for all records so that "Melodie's" little mother can learn to recite, sing or pray right along with her doll.

"TO BE OR NOT TO BE"

In Shakespeare's day, a maiden's hope chest consisted chiefly of toys for her future children. The term "hope chest" originated from the fact that the chest would eventually go into a maiden's "home of her hopes."

Doll Furniture from Doepke Designed for 8-11" Numbers



The Charles William Doepke Manufacturing Company, long known as a maker of Model Toys primarily for boys, has entered the world of "little women" with an add-a piece assortment of doll furniture.

Designed by Gaston, long associated with the design and manufacture of wooden toys, the new Doepke doll furniture has been built for today's popular eight, ten and eleven-inch dolls. To open the new line, Doepke offers a bedroom suite in turquoise blue, with tan on ivory for a blonde effect and strikingly contrasting black accents.

Included in the suite are a bookcase bed, wardrobe, chest, double chest, desk and chair, and vanity and bench. For the most part, construction is of solid wood and Duron. With the exception of the bookcase styled headboard, the bed is constructed of steel with a foam mattress. All furniture is nailed and glued together—there are no eyelets and no cardboard.

The bed comprises a speckled beige bookcase headboard with turquoise sliding doors; the metal frame and foam mattress; a turquoise tailored spread to match the doors; a bolster; and two felt covered pillows—one orange and square in shape, the other yellow and circular.

The wardrobe has shelves on one side and a clothes rod on the other to take 10-inch doll hangers. Sliding doors in turquoise blue have a powder pink floral design silk-screened on them. The finish is washable.

Desirable features are present throughout the entire line, the manufacturer states. The vanity has a recessed mirror; the chair and bench are skillfully upholstered in turquoise with an abstract motif; door knobs, drawer pulls and legs are all black to accent the other colors.

Fred W. Doepke, vice president of the manufacturing firm, points out that Gaston has designed this furniture specifically for popular size dolls.

"Moreover," he added, "the furniture has educational value in that it teaches basic housekeeping and orderliness. Generally, fine doll furniture will increase many times the enjoyment of dolls. Our new line is tough and will easily withstand the little 'accidents' which happen to toys."

Retail prices on the furniture pieces are as follows: A bookcase bed, $7.95; wardrobe, $5.95; double chest, $7.95; chest, $4.95; desk and chair, $5.95; chair (separate), $2; and a vanity and bench, $7.95.

Mr. Doepke noted that his firm has offered the furniture to wholesalers, as well as directly to retailers.

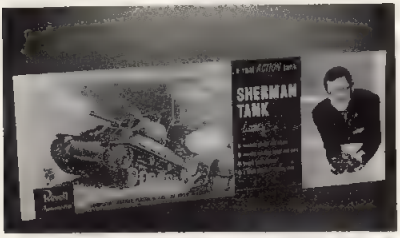
Famous M-4 Sherman Tank New Addition to Revell Line



Revell rolls a new line into the hobby kit field, the famous M-4 Sherman Tank with real moving parts, complete with six sculptured, action-posed G.I. soldiers.

The most widely-used American tank during World War II, the "General Sherman" medium tank was one of the most important pieces of heavy equipment of the U. S. armored divisions during the war and was widely used in North Africa, Italy, France and Germany.

Major promotional support will create heavy interest in this new item, according to Henry Blankfort, Revell PR Director. An important tie-in publicity campaign will be set into motion with the release of the Paramount picture "The Proud and Profane," starring William Holden. Window banners (see above) featuring Holden and the Revell M-4 Sherman Tank will be available to all dealers. Theatre exhibitors showing this film will be happy to cooperate in setting up tie-in lobby displays.

At the same time, local U. S. Army Recruiting Officers will help dealers build exciting attention-arresting windows by supplying them with posters and other material in keeping with the theme.

Scaled from actual specifications, this 7¼-inch tank features two individual tracks driven by two sprocket wheels with eighteen suspension and idler wheels. As the tank is pushed forward, the track slides smoothly over the entire wheel assembly.

The revolving turret boasts a 75 mm gun which can be elevated or depressed. Other armaments include a turret-mounted 50-caliber machine gun which can be raised or lowered and a stationary 50-caliber machine gun on the forward bow plate of the tank. Three hinged hatches, one atop the turret, can be cemented in an open or closed position.

Even such details as the phone box, tank lights, hull lifts, antenna and travel rack are clearly defined. Official U. S. Army Ordnance insignias are pointed up on the colorful decal sheet.

Simulating an actual battle scene, five life like sculptured G.I. foot soldiers, carrying bayonets, rifles and grenades, and one figure of a tank commander directing the action from the turret hatch are included in the easy-assembly kit.

Revell has designed an eye-appealing point of purchase three dimensional die cut display piece to silhouette this dramatic new Sherman M-4 Tank. Available through Revell jobbers, this display piece is free to dealers with each made-up model.

"He has an exceptionally fine background for the job of representing our products," states Ed Manulkin, partner of Pete Timchal at Sterling.

"While we have long recognized that many companies in the hobby industry employ representatives, this move represents a major departure from Sterling's past marketing pattern," Mr. Manulkin advises. "I believe it will broaden our service and generally benefit our customers."

Sterling currently manufactures some 38 different model boat and plane kits, balsa and plastic. The firm is the new occupant of a 45,000-square-foot plant equipped with modern machinery for the production of quality hobby items. A separate administration building is utilized to house all administrative and executive offices, as well as the engineering and modelmaking departments.

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT TOY SET OFFERED BY TONKA

With highway building and maintenance crews a common sight along the nation's thoroughfares again this summer, it is figured the new miniature highway department toys shown here will draw more than a little attention from the youngsters.

Four scale working models, authentic down to the orange paint and identification signs, comprise this set, recently introduced by Tonka Toys, Inc., Mound, Minn. Mimicking their adult counterparts, boys can operate the road grader, the hydraulically-operated highway service truck, the regular dump truck and a pickup model. Six highway signs and two road barriers are included in the set.

"PUSH-BUTTON" PROJECTORS HELP OAKES DISTRIBUTORS SELL TOYS

Oakes Consumer Catalogs, Chicago, have developed a new merchandising tool for distributor-members of the Oakes Toy Book Program. In use since the Toy Fair, the selling aid is an automatic, portable, push-button-control projector that projects onto a screen large, full-color illustrations of the toys which make up the program. Each toy item on the film strip is flashed on the screen individually and described in detail.

"Either the Oakes distributor's salesman or the dealer himself can change from item to item by just pushing a button," Ed Bernardi of Oakes advises. "Time can be taken to discuss each item and its features, to ask and answer questions and . . . write orders."

These projectors, he adds, can be used by distributors while they are working with dealers in the showrooms; at meetings of distributor salesmen; during group meetings with dealers; and for showing dealers the Oakes offerings right in their own stores or homes.

"With many dealers unable to travel to their wholesaler's showroom to see samples, the projector gives them the very next best thing," Mr. Bernardi notes. "It enables them to get a look at finely-detailed, colored pictures of the catalogued toys. The descriptive copy tells them all they need to know about sizes, prices, and so forth."

STITCH IN TIME

"Sewing parties" where little girls brought along their toy sewing sets to make pretty things for their dolls, were popular in colonial days in America.

Super Yardbird Featured on "Beat the Clock" TV Show

Bud Collyer supervises "Beat the Clock" contestants.

The Super Yardbird railroad made by the Charles Wm. Doepke Mfg. Company, Rossmoyne, Ohio, was recently the featured star on a nationally televised network program

It was believed to be the first time in the history of network TV that an entire program had been built solely around one toy

Reaching an estimated audience of 40-million people, the June 30 edition of "Beat The Clock," was devoted in its entirety to spectacular stunts built around the Doepke railroad equipment

Sponsored by Fresh Deodorants and cosmetics, "Beat The Clock" had been working with Doepke for nearly two months in preparation for the broadcast. There was no buying of, time involved; "Beat The Clock's" producers simply thought the Yardbird equipment would form the basis for a number of clever stunts

"Next to the layout at our engineering building," Fred W. Doepke, vice president said, "the 'Beat The Clock' layout was the most extensive we have assembled at the factory All told, nearly $500 worth of equipment was shipped to New York.

"About 200 feet of track was shipped in assembled five-foot sections. Along with it went two Super Yardbird battery-powered locomotives; two hand-driven locomotives, two flatcar trailer units; a miniature rail road station and various 'railroad crossing' and 'men at work' signs.'

All equipment was assembled and thoroughly pre-tested at the factory before being shipped. Mr. Doepke noted. John Massey, a member of the Doepke engineering department, was in New York for rehearsals and broadcast to supervise the setting up of the equipment there.

Realizing the potential of such publicity Doepke informed all its dealers of the forthcoming program, urging them to tie in with ads in Sunday or Monday papers to capitalize on the "Beat The Clock" showing.

"Working with the CBS-TV 'Beat The Clock' team was a pleasure," Mr. Doepke said. "Their cooperation was complete from beginning to end and we feel it was most generous of them to use our equipment as the basis for an entire program.

"Our main interest in supplying the equipment was so that we could furnish our dealers with a sales tool of tremendous power and impact. Naturally, we felt that 'Beat The Clock' was all of that. Whenever we can aid our dealers with something like this, we make every endeavor to push it through to a successful conclusion."

"Beat The Clock" was shown on approximately 80 CBS-TV stations throughout the country at 7.30 p.m., E.D.T

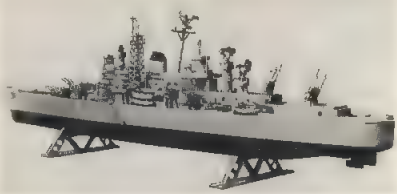
The U.S.S. Boston, a Guided Missile Cruiser, In Revell Line



The world's first missile-carrying combat ship joins Revell's model Naval Fleet with the launching of the authentic scale replica of the Guided Missile Cruiser U.S.S. Boston, reproduced from official U. S. Navy blueprints.

Heralding a new era, the 17 inch long plastic kit model is armed with four needle-nosed missiles and two Terrier launchers and guidance directors.

While the general dimensions of the U.S.S. Boston are the same as those of a Baltimore class heavy cruiser, her outward appearance has been radically changed. Gone is her after stack, as well as most of the structure on the after deck. In place of normal gun turrets on the after deck are the two Terrier launchers, each servicing two missiles.

Molded with a full hull and rudder, the Revell kit is precision-engineered with every detail of the prototype. Armaments include two 8" turrets with guns, five 5" turrets with guns, and six 40 mm guns. These armaments supplement the Terrier missiles, which are designed as supersonic anti-aircraft weapons that can intercept targets at a longer range and higher altitude than conventional weapons.

The ship's radar, used in the full-size ship to find the target for the missiles; the large and small tracking towers, tracking screens, radar masts and screens, radar cluster and antennas are highly detailed.

Also included in the easy-to-assemble 79-piece kit are two lifeboats, two open motor launches and two covered launches. Official U. S. Navy decals and display stands for mounting the ship model complete the kit. Retail price is $1.69; catalog #334.

Several New "Electronatic" Toys from Saunders-Swadar

"What's new?"

To this, the most frequent query heard at the Toy Fair, the Saunders-Swader Toy Company answers with several new versions of the "Electronatic" motor so successfully employed last year by Saunders in the Marvelous Mike tractor. (When the latter was introduced last year it employed a mechanical motion hitherto unknown to toys and for want of a descriptive name the unique action was dubbed "Electronatic," which is to imply an electronic device with automatic action.)

Among the items expected by the manufacturer to be volume sales producers for

'56 is this year's model of the popular Nash Rambler. Working in conjunction with American Motors, Saunders Swadar developed a 10-inch scale model replica of the Nash Rambler which incorporates the "Electronatic" motor and provides swift and sure action as the car proceeds in a forward direction and then backs and turns by itself upon encountering an object. The Rambler is finished in three colors and comes replete with white side wall tires. Considerable promotion will be used during the year to assure a constant and large demand for this new item, the manufacturer promises.

Sloo Foot, the Pup, another of Saunders' new items, is a sad-eyed bloodhound "that all little boys and girls will cherish." Equipped with an "Electronatic" mechanical device, the pup will turn out of corners, extricate himself from under tables and chairs and perform many hilarious feats of locomotion. Sloo Foot also has an attractive collar and leash, and when the dog is in motion a slight pull on the leash will cause him to change direction or back up as the youngster wills.

A doll and a fire engine with "Electronatic" motors are also under development and both will probably be at the Saunders Toy Fair exhibits.

Recognizing the current interest in space ships and the space experiments to be conducted by our government, Saunders has developed the Space Searcher Radio. Actually, this item is a transistor radio compactly contained in one ear-piece of a head set while the other ear-piece is the receiver. Battery-operated, the set, in tests, is said to have successfully brought in a number of stations in suburban areas, and in outlying areas produced a strong signal from radio stations as far as 15 to 25 miles away. The set has a definite futuristic appearance, is simple to operate and is finished in three colors.

Marvelous Mike, of which 260,000 are reported to have been sold last year, will be a highlight again in the Saunders' line. Paul Saunders, president of the Saunders-Swadar Toy Company, who developed the "Electronatic" device used in Marvelous Mike, points out that there are many critical parts used in the manufacture and only the most expert workmanship can guarantee that a toy using the device will operate satisfactorily. Considerable time and money has gone into the developing of the "Electronatic" motor and patents covering the construction have been granted he adds. The firm advises that every legal measure shall be taken to prevent violation of the patents and to protect their property from imitators.

Jack Cloud, sales manager, who has been closely identified with this year's developments and with the working out of promotional plans, feels that the record made by Marvelous Mike will most certainly be eclipsed and that buyers will find in this year's presentations items that will produce real profit. The Saunders line will be at the Hotel New Yorker in Room 723 and at Milton A. Jacobs' showroom, Room 561, in the Fifth Avenue Building.

Comic Book, "The Friendly Cootie Bug," from Schaper

National sales manager Sheldon Seyles and W. H. "Herb" Schaper.

The story of Herb Schaper's famous Cootie game has become well known the land over. Yet, this year Schaper Plastic Games will tell the Cootie Bug tale to actually millions of new customers, according to Schaper Company officials.

One major addition to the schedule of Schaper promotional activities this year has been the creation of a 32-page, full color comic book, aptly entitled, "The Friendly Cootie Bug." More than one million of these books have already been printed and delivered to the Schaper plant in Minneapolis, where they are being inserted in every game that leaves the factory.

The book is the result of a combined effort of Schaper management, the firm's advertising agency and Custom Comics, Inc., a New York firm that did the art, script and actual production.

In addition to the fetching story of the central character, Cootie, full-page plugs are given to a dozen other games in the Schaper line. This means, of course, that no matter what game the customer buys, he gets a sales message on at least 11 other games from the comic book.

Preliminary work on the book began shortly before the first of the year. A general approach was decided upon by Herb Schaper and his staff and sent to Custom Comics. There, a page-by-page color layout, with suggested story, was created and returned to Schaper. Minor revisions were made and the advertising copy was written by Schaper's ad agency.

Final art was completed and the books were put into production. Schaper placed an initial order for one-million books, plus an extra 3,000 for the March Toy Fair, where they were first distributed.

The actual story of "The Friendly Cootie Bug" is written in easy-to-understand style, designed to tell the tale in the most attractive manner to children. According to the story, Cootie Bug was once the saddest little bug in Insectland because he couldn't serve any worthwhile purpose in life. Things go from bad to worse with all the other insects telling him of his uselessness (Freddie Firefly snaps, "Out of my way How can the world see my fine glow if you block the view?"). Finally the proverbial Good Fairy shows up and tells our hero that to be friendly is kind . . . and to be kind makes others happy. This, says the Fairy, is a good and noble virtue. Then, she gives Cootie one wish, which he states is that he can become a new and special Cootie Bug—one children can enjoy.

Things end up "just right" to make all the kiddies happy and Cootie himself says:

Now every girl and every boy
Thinks me cute enough to hug
I've filled them all with sheerest joy—
I'm the "Friendly Cootie Bug."

The free distribution of the comic book is expected to extend far beyond the enclosure of a book in each Schaper game package. Already letters and requests are coming into the Minneapolis offices asking for the book, it is reported.

Expected by the manufacturer to be one of the most talked about dolls of 1956, Ideal Toy Corporation's new Revlon number, shown here, will be available next month, September, according to spokesmen for the company.

A "big sister" intended to be as glamorous as the girl in the Revlon ads and on TV programs such as the "$64,000 Dollar Question," the new doll has a bust, a turning waist which permits her to bend forward, backward or to pirouette; new

"Magic-Touch" skin, exclusive with Ideal, washable and wavable rooted Saran hair; and long shapely legs dressed with high-heel, open-toed shoes and full-length nylons.

The Revlon doll's high-styled wardrobe is accented by jewelry which includes—in the the most expensive style—a rhinestone necklace, earrings, an engagement ring and fur stole. Less expensive models have simulated pearl jewelry.

New Models, Styling in Tonka Line

MANUFACTURERS of the Tonka Toy line of scale model, metal trucks and equipment are entering the 1956 toy season with a new company name, six new models or sets and new front-end and other styling for the entire line.

Effective the first of the year, the Mound, Minnesota, firm officially became Tonka Toys, Inc. It had previously been named, Mound Metalcraft, Inc. The change, according to company president, L. E. Baker, is intended to give greater emphasis to the firm's product and to better identify it in the trade and among consumers.

Company title was the only change made at the firm, Mr. Baker emphasized; ownership, officers, personnel and plant facilities will remain the same as under the previous name.

The company, which was originally founded in 1946 to produce garden implements and closet storage accessories, has been manufacturing Tonka Toys for nine years and now employs 350 workers, Mr. Baker said. He also stated that the company increased production by 25 per cent with the completion of a new plant last year and that further expansion is being considered for the future.

At the same time he announced the firm's new name, the Tonka Toy president released details on six additions to the line that will be introduced at the March Toy Fair in New York. He also announced complete restyling of vehicle front ends and other details on the entire Tonka fleet that will now total 25.

Foremost among the new models, according to Mr. Baker, is a "Suburban Pumper" fire engine that comes equipped with a real, operating hydrant. The hydrant permits the pumper to be linked to any standard garden hose so that a continuous stream of water can be supplied to the unit's 40" fire hose.

According to Mr. Baker, the new pumper is one of the most workable units the firm has ever produced. It is designed to sell at a suggested retail price of $8.98 and measures 17" in length, 6" in width and is 6½" high. In addition to the hydrant the unit is equipped with a removable ladder and two hydrant-connecting hoses carried along either side of the truck. The fire hose, that is wound on a realistic reel when not in use, has a hook so that it can be attached to the top of a Tonka Aerial Ladder or other equipment.

The new pumper, Baker said, is a scale model of the versatile units found in some cities and in most suburban and rural communities. It is being sold as part of the new "Tonka Fire Dept." set as well as individually and has been identified as model #0950-6.

Another new Tonka Toy that, according to Mr. Baker, was designed to offer greater toy truck play value through added operating details, is the "Hi-Way Hydraulic Dump Truck." The new unit uses a miniature hydraulic mechanism for its dumping action and has a tail gate that can be adjusted for either straight dumping or spreading. In addition, Mr. Baker said, the truck's two sides can be dropped, as on real models, for "road sanding" and similar tasks.

Bright "Highway" yellow paint and simulated warning and operating lights heighten the new dump truck's realism, Mr. Baker said, as do the "Highway Dept." door decals. Suggested retail price of the new truck is $5.98 and it measures 13" long, 6" wide and 5¾" high. The unit has been identified as #980-6.

Other individual additions to the Tonka line are a light blue finished "Farm Stake Truck" (#925-6, retail: $3.98) and a new "Tonka Wrecker" (#960-6, retail: $4.98) that, according to Mr. Baker, is a particularly rugged model.

Two big Tonka Toy sets will also make their debut at the March Toy Fair, Mr. Baker said, and, for the first time, both will be packaged with material not available individually. The "Tonka Fire Dept." (#900-6, suggested retail: $28.95) will contain a metal, scale replica of a fire chief's badge and a special "Rescue Squad" truck in addition to the new "Suburban Pumper" and a "Tonka Aerial Ladder." The badge and rescue squad truck will be available only in the set.

Six metal road signs, two "construction area" barriers, special "Highway Dept." decals and "highway" yellow vehicle paint will be exclusive features of the second new Tonka set, the "State Highway Dept." (#975-6, retail: $19.95). In addition, the set's road grader, Mr. Baker reported, has been equipped with additional simulated operating and warning lights that do not appear on the standard model. This is also true of the warning light that has been added to the pick-up truck which, along with the standard design and new hydraulic dump trucks, fills out the set. The hydraulic dump will be the only unit sold individually with the same paint and decals used in the set.

As to complete-line restyling, this year's Tonka models will have new chromate plated grills, bumpers and headlights that faithfully reproduce current, real truck design. In addition, the "standard wheels" on all trailers have been redesigned and several details on the company's Aerial Ladder have been improved.

Mr. Baker also stated that individual unit boxes will this year have a drawing of the enclosed toy and that particular attention has been paid to the packaging of the mult-unit set—all intended to produce more attractive-looking retail displays.

Tonka Toys, Inc., is looking forward to its best year in 1956, Mr. Baker said, and will begin full-scale production early in anticipation of continuing heavy demand. This, coupled with the company's increased production facilities, will permit Tonka to offer even better service during the year, he added.

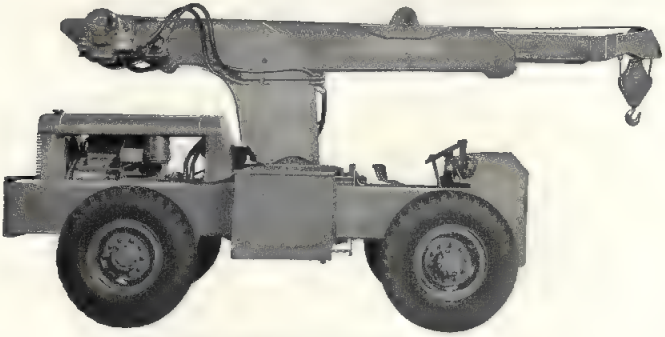
AUSTIN-WESTERN HYDRAULIC CRANES



THE INDOOR-OUTDOOR CRANE OF MANY USES

The tractor-mounted Hydraulic Crane, with its pick-up, carrying, and placement capabilities, combines the best features of crawler, truck, and erection cranes with those of industrial shop cranes. All movements are actuated by fast, smooth, positive hydraulic power.

Steering, too, is done hydraulically—the front wheels power-booster steered, while the rear axle has a straight hydraulic, lever-actuated steering control—affording the shortest possible turning radius of 15 feet.

This tractor crane can be equipped with either a gasoline or diesel engine and has a full reverse six-speed transmission.

The telescopic boom can be raised from the horizontal to an approximate 45° angle or to any intermediate point, and is continuously rotatable through a full 360°. Two or more movements of the boom and cable are possible while the tractor is in motion. The angle of the boom is quickly and easily changed while operating under load.

The crane can lift and transport its maximum load any distance, through low-clearance doors, and then, with the boom extended, the hook can be raised 24 feet or lowered 30 feet below ground level.

Manual boom extensions in 6, 8, 10, 12, 14 and 17 foot lengths are available as optional equipment, affording a maximum horizontal reach of 35 feet.

The tractor crane is available with either two- or four-wheel drive, and special attachments include an orange peel bucket, clamshell bucket and electric magnet.

For added working capacity outriggers, front-mounted winch and front-mounted carrying platform are also available.

It weighs approximately 18,000 pounds, and traveling speeds range from 1.88 mph in low to approximately 20.56 mph in high at full engine throttle.

TRUCK-MOUNTED MODEL

The Austin-Western Hydraulic Crane can be mounted on any truck meeting the minimum chassis requirements, and proves particularly advantageous for long-distance, high-speed runs on the job or from job to job.

Complete hydraulic operations include: continuous 360° turntable rotation, extension and retraction of the boom, raising and lowering of the cable and boom elevation.

Outriggers are added to prevent frame distortion, as well as to insure sufficient stability.

DANCING SURPRISE BALLS BROUGHT OUT BY GREGOR

A Dancing Surprise Ball has been added to the line of hand-rolled, hand-painted Surprise Toys made by Charles Gregor Creations, Inc., Metairie (New Orleans), La.

Offered in eight models bearing the likenesses of a pirate, pixie, clown, Uncle rabbit, monkey, witch and Santa Claus the Dancing Surprise Balls are individually packaged in see-through bags and are priced to retail at about $1.50.

Each model is basically a Surprise Ball, with fake money, whistles, puzzles and so forth concealed. After unrolling yards of multi-colored crepe paper, the youngster discovers these contents. Jiggling arms and legs, made of special pleated crepe paper by a new patented process, add a new dimension of entertainment.

During the past five years Gregor Creations have manufactured over 1,000,000 items and report that demand has increased to a point where doubling of production has become necessary. A new warehouse is presently being added to the already block-long plant

SEWING FASHION FESTIVAL ATTRACTS YOUNG AND OLD

A good percentage of the 70,000 persons thronging the New York Coliseum for the first annual Sewing Fashion Festival were children and teen-agers, it was revealed in a breakdown of attendance figures for the seven-day show.

Special student groups, engaged in sewing class demonstrations, graduation exercises and fashion shows, totalled 14,500 Sewing classes from 11 different public schools demonstrated classroom techniques for Coliseum visitors, while contestants in the Junior Dressmaking Contest sponsored by the Singer Sewing Machine Company went to sewing class in view of the public.

"Fashions for the Lollipop Set," sponsored by the Grenet Manufacturing Company, reportedly drew a rapt audience of fashion-minded youngsters. Certain aspects of the Sewing Fashion Festival fascinated the children, such as the gay focal units which revolved slowly, merry-go-round style. Children and adults alike sat on the huge display, getting a ride while they rested their feet

Electronic Number, Atomic Sub Navigator, from Magnetix, Inc.

Inspired by the U. S. atomic submarine, Nautilus, Magnetix, Inc., has come out with a new electronic toy, the Atomic Submarine Electronic Navigator. All of the action of the atomic submarine is said to have been incorporated in this new item to intrigue youngsters from ages 6 to 15.

A child starts the action of the submarine by turning on the power control; then, by manipulating the steering wheel, he takes the ship through a charted course of all of the waterways of the world. An electronic sonar system buzzes and a red light flashes should the child veer off the course. Underwater life and activity, and the profiles of islands and continents can be seen through a periscope viewer. Blue sparks show the atomic reactor at work. There is a telegraph buzzer key to send messages. A moving navigation chart pin points the submarine's exact position on a world map.

Priced to retail at $6.95, the Atomic Submarine Electronic Navigator operates on two standard flashlight batteries and is on display in the showrooms of Luttinger & Weil, Room 356, 200 Fifth Avenue, N. Y.

DETROIT SANDER

A new type of sanding machine is announced by the Detroit Surfacing Machine Company, manufacturers of pneumatic and electric reciprocating (straight-line) Detroit Easy Finishers.

The new Model DA is air-powered. Its dual sanding action moves in two directions at the same time, turning 6000 rpm to the right, and at the same time moving in a fast reverse action to the left. The result is faster cutting and abrasive savings (sandpaper) of up to 80%. Applications range from smoothing fiberglass hulls and refinishing Plexiglas to such heavy work as removing paint, rust, etc.

A high-speed "off-center" spinner reduces normal abrasive swirls and makes it practically impossible to gouge even older wooden hulls when removing paint to refinish or to apply fiberglass.

For literature on the new Model DA and the company's line of straight-line reciprocating sanders, write the Detroit Surfacing Machine Company, 1333 East Eight Mile Road, Detroit 20, Michigan.

BOAT 'N BEACH

Encouraged by widespread acceptance of their economical polystyrene Marine Utility Chest, the Boat 'n Beach Co., Lynbrook, N. Y., has announced new additions to their marine products.

Featured is a line of rugged plastic laundry bags, clothes stowaways, shoe bags, blanket covers, pillow case covers and tablecloths. Of plastic fabrics, these items are designed to enhance cabin decor and keep things shipshape below.

Boat 'n Beach is introducing three pieces of folding marine furniture that stow flat—deck chairs, chaise lounges and cots—made of corrosion-resistant anodized aluminum, with fabric portions of rot-resistent nylon.

To round out their list of over 60 marine specialties there is an imported mahogany-encased wall or desk barometer mounted on a ship's wheel, also offered in a barometer-thermometer combination.

UHU MARINE ADHESIVE

A powerful new chemical formula, Adheson 22, used with success in European shipbuilding and glider manufacture, makes UHU a versatile all-purpose marine adhesive. It glues and tenaciously holds together a wide range of both like and unlike materials used in the manufacture and maintenance of boats, boat equipment, accessories, furnishing, and sports gear—woods, metals, fabrics, rubber, glass, and laminated materials.

Leakproof and elastic, UHU is resistant to heat expansion, cold contraction, and all weather conditions. It is colorless and non-staining, cannot harm paint or varnish work and is ready to use, right from the tube. Marine dealers are now beginning to stock UHU. An explanatory leaflet is available from the manufacturer, UHU Products Corp., 820 Greenwich St., New York 14, N. Y.

Sturdier and handsomer boats are made with

ILCO Philippine Mahogany

Philippine Mahogany is the best of all possible hardwoods for fine boatbuilding. It is light in weight and has great elasticity. It has far greater resistance to rot and decay than other woods of equal strength because it is much less absorbent. Easily workable, Philippine Mahogany offers the boatowner enduring beauty as well. And it is so economical it can be used for planking, decking and trim

Of all Philippine Mahoganies, we consider Ilco brand the best. First of all, the wood itself—because of the continuous growing season on the Island of Negros, from which it comes, its firm texture, no alternate soft and hard layers. Second, the Ilco people are extremely careful in the processing of their product. It is milled right on the island; only the most modern equipment is used, and it is scientifically kiln dried before shipment.

We will gladly submit estimates on orders of any size. Write 157 Varick Avenue, Brooklyn 6, New York, or telephone HYacinth 5-5170.

Burger sets the pace

Once again, with the new 65, Burger has taken the lead in presenting the ideal modern yacht for gracious living and entertaining. No detail for living comfort, pleasure or beauty has been overlooked in either the interior arrangement plans or the quality materials, master craftsmanship and joinerwork used throughout.

Though yachts half its size will boast of "sleeping" six or eight, the Burger 65 has been designed for the most discriminating yachtsmen and host who does not care to leave the refinements of life on shore. The Burger 65 will accommodate owner, family, guests and crew in the utmost privacy, comfort and luxury.

Throughout its long and reputable history in the yacht building field, Burger has been way out ahead. Not only, the first to pioneer the steel hull and make the most of the safety features and many economies of modern building materials and construction methods, but also, the first to develop the flush deck type of cruiser for complete enjoyment and use of the entire deck area, fore and aft, with no awkward detours through the interior. Again today, Burger has set the pace in meeting the demands of truly gracious living and entertaining afloat.

The Burger Boat Company will occupy "Booth 80" at the New York Boat Show. Stop or send for the new brochure.

FIRST IN STEEL YACHTS

FEDERAL PAINT

A new and improved line of yacht finishes, offering greater beauty and protective efficiency, has recently been developed by the Federal Paint Company, Inc., 33 Rector Street, New York 6, N. Y.

With its new formulation, Federal Yacht Bottom Paints completely shield a boat bottom from all types of marine growth, regardless of locality or length of season.

Federal Yacht Whites and Federal Yacht Colors have a full-bodied brilliance and long-lasting gloss that resists deteriorating effects of salt air, water and sunlight. The Yacht Colors are available in eighteen hues, including black and white. They bring within easy reach of the boat owner, the most advanced aspect of color treatment on a hull.

Also included in the Federal line is Fed-Ex Degreaser, a solvent which frees boats of oil and grease deposits in minutes.

PAIGE BOTE-TOTE

A collapsible carrying carton, called Bote-Tote, which will prove a boon to the boat owner has been announced by the Paige Company, New York. Though Bote-Tote—measuring only 12" x 15" x 10"—is specifically designed for transporting and storing provisions, grog, togs, linens and other miscellaneous gear, its chief advantage is that it can be knocked down for flat storage in just two seconds.

Bote-Tote can be stored or stacked conveniently under bunks, decks and other out-of-the-way places. And when back in port after a long or short cruise, Bote-Tote, in one simple pushing movement, may be popped open, ready to carry home all the gear.

Bote-Tote, made of double thick, white moisture-resistant corugated, is rugged and durable. It provides a fine place to store various items of cabin gear during the winter. The boxes can be compactly stacked in any home closet, cellar or garage.

While The Paige Company is now in the process of setting up distirbution at marine supply stores, Bote-Tote may be purchased direct from the company, 114 East 32nd Street, New York 16, N. Y.

PENETROL

The question of rust is a problem on boats and yachts. Not only do mechanical parts and tools suffer, but there is also the condition which arises when ferrous metal fastenings have been used in the construction. Bleeding through the paint will spoil the appearance of a boat.

For upwards of twenty years the Flood Company of Hudson, Ohio have been making their product Penetrol, which is designed to combat this condition. Penetrol is a clear air-drying oil-based product. It is not a paint or a substitute for paint although it is frequently used as a fortifier for paints and can be applied by either a brush or spray. It has been extensively used for the control, prevention, and elimination of rust and corrosion on wood and metal. It makes marine painting, waterproofing and rust control easier and more effective.

FULTON WINTER SEALS

For those whose occupations call for long periods of exposure to the winter weather, adequate insulated garments are essential. The Fulton Supply Company, New York, specialize in this type of clothing which is recommended for fishermen and other outdoor services. Made of an ultra-light, air cell, insulated product, they will maintain normal body temperatures and still allow breathing through the porous material. The insulation is secured between two layers of strong durable nylon and the garments are so light that the wearer hardly is aware of the garment.

Made as both under and outer wear, it comes in the form of Long Johns and suits of both tops and bottoms. Parkas with hood and separate vests are also included as well as long-coat style called Refrigerator Coat designed for the wearer who must enter cold storage spaces frequently. Burger sets the pace

Once again, with the new 65, Burger has taken the lead in presenting the ideal modern yacht for gracious living and entertaining. No detail for living comfort, pleasure or beauty has been overlooked in either the interior arrangement plans or the quality materials, master craftsmanship and joiner work used throughout.

Though yachts half its size will boast of "sleeping" six or eight, the Burger 65 has been designed for the most discriminating yachtsman and host who does not care to leave the refinements of life on shore. The Burger 65 will accommodate owner, family, guests and crew in the utmost privacy, comfort and luxury.

Throughout its long and reputable history in the yacht building field, Burger has been way out ahead. Not only, the first to pioneer the steel hull and make the most of the safety features and many economies of modern building materials and construction methods, but also, the first to develop the flush deck type of cruiser for complete enjoyment and use of the entire deck area, fore and aft, with no awkward detours through the interior. Again today, Burger has set the pace in meeting the demands of truly gracious living and entertaining afloat.

The Burger Boat Company will occupy "Booth 80" at the New York Boat Show. Stop or send for the new brochure.

A NEW AND EXCITING SPORT

Water Skipper is the name given to an entirely new form of little boat driven by outboard engines of up to 10 hp. This little planing hull is only 7 by 4 feet and made of strong, durable marine plywood. Its high degree of stability makes it virtually impossible to sink or capsize. The rider operates the boat in a standing position while controlling the operation from a substantially mounted helm post. The throttle is spring-loaded so that the engine idles at once when the control is released. Steering and maneuvering is done by leaning from side to side in the direction of the turn.

The little hull will easily support two persons; in fact, it will support up to 800 pounds. The draft is practically nothing and the planing hull skims over the water and remains dry even in choppy waters. It weighs only about 75 pounds so that it can be easily transported by car or boat. Water Skippers are built by Hasso Industries Inc., South Hackensack, New Jersey.

ANTI-RUST V-LOPES

Moist salt atmosphere around boats quickly causes a layer of rust to form on all unprocteted steel parts and tools. V-Lopes, developed by the Westwill Company of Westport, Connecticut, is a protective material designed to guard against rusting. It takes the form of a chemically impregnated paper which is formed into containers and pouches in which the articles to be protected are wrapped. The chemical evaporates slowly and as it does it deposits an inviaible film on the metal which is more effective than oil or grease in preventing rust.

To protect tools and parts on a boat, a sheet of V-Lopes paper is placed in the bottom of a drawer in which the parts are stored. A roll of the paper stuck in a glass jar containing small parts will effectively protect them. Such tools as saws are protected by a saw sleeve container which will keep them bright and new for years. Larger tools and parts can be carried in canvas pouches which will keep them rust-free, even under extreme conditions of moisture.

FAGEOL ENGINE ACCESSORIES

A complete new Fageol "44" engine accessory line for 1956 is described in the new Accessory Catalog just issued by Fageol Products Company, Kent, Ohio.

Among the important items described is the new Fageol Speed Kit. This substantially increases the engine's normal hp, and was designed by L. J. Fageol, company president and famed Gold Cup racer. It can be installed on engines already in service, as well as on new power packages. The Fageol "44" was formerly known as the Aerojet.

Other major equipment listed in the catalog includes the special Fageol lightweight battery, wiring harness, propellers, fuel tanks, complete instrumentation (with tachometers) etc.

Catalog copies may be secured from any Fageol dealer, or write to Fageol Products Company, Kent, Ohio.

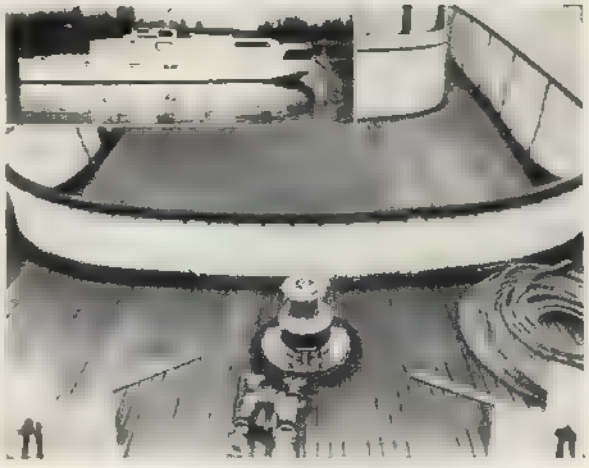
Better Fastened WITHOUT Fastenings!



AR-703
MARINE COATING

YES, IT'S TRUE! No fastenings were used on the teak decks of the 90 foot "Gold Plater," Elbarado, when she was redecked 18 months ago. Instead, owner Mr. Hoyt Wooten—using a new, time-saving technique—selected the tough marine coating, AR-703, as his "fastenings." Because AR-703 has such tremendous adhesion—over 20,000 pounds per square foot—it was decided to use the material to literally "glue" the deck in place, eliminating all fastenings and plugs.

Aside from laying decks, AR-703 has many other uses. It provides a durable, flexible protective waterproof layer on any boat surface be it wood, metal or fabric. Impervious to sun, salt water, worms, heat and abrasion, long-lasting AR-703 is offered in gray, dark red or black.

AR-707
NO COTTON CAULKING

TO DRESS UP the new teak decks of the Elbarado, as well as added insurance against leakage, AR-707 No Cotton Caulking was used in the seams.

The only compound that successfully adheres to teak, AR-707 is far superior to cotton. Above or below the water, it remains resilient and provides a water-tight gasket in any seam up to ⅜ of an inch.

AR-711
LONG LIFE COATING

THE MAINTENANCE of brightwork ceases to be a problem when coated with AR-711. Setting to a rugged, high polish, glass-like surface, resilient AR-711 lasts many seasons and protects brightwork from sunlight, salt water, gasoline and abrasion. In addition to the clear, AR-711 is available in an array of color-fast colors: gray, green, buff, blue, and white.
